ON THE RISE

The walls of the main office at Ludlow High School used to be devoid of decoration. This has changed since the mural club created a large painting that is now displayed there. "The secretaries wanted the mural club to make something that would liven up the walls of the office," says senior Denise Bradway of the mural club. "It took three months to complete the project. "We picked up the project where last year's club left off. We took a bunch of pictures from different magazines and interpreted a little bit of each one into the mural," states Denise. The completed mural hangs on the back wall of the office and spans ten feet. This and several other improvements within the school building have attested to all that we are on the rise.

RISING SUN

Knowledge

We were all so youthful, and moderately innocent. Mostly, we were unknowing, like children. We were in our own little worlds, little spheres all to ourselves. Stuck in our relationships, our social circles, our microscopic endeavors which, to us, always seemed mammoth. We were in a bubble, a safe, comforting little bubble.

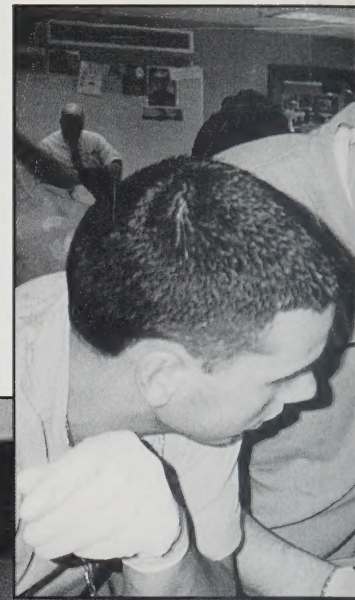

And suddenly, the bubble pops. A shock wave of light strikes, flashing like lightning, spreading rapidly like violent ripples disturbing placid water.

The sun rises, and shines a powerful, blinding light on an entire world to which we were always oblivious. We are bombarded with knowledge that is sometimes painful. We are swept into a whirlwind of changes.

And blinking, we step into the vast brightness. We step forward into a dangerous new world about which we have just learned.

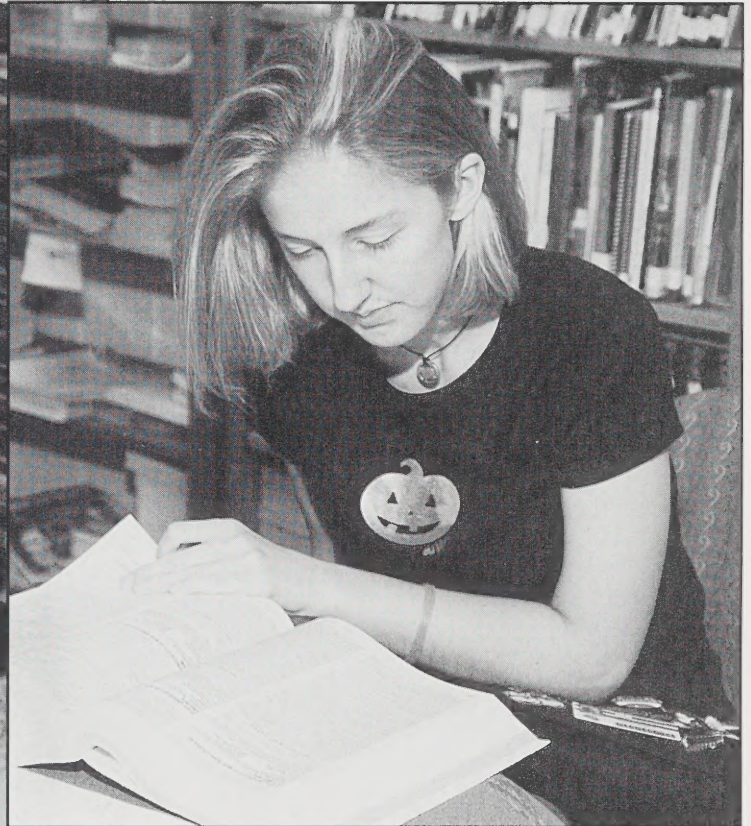

We are in the real world now, and getting here has transformed us irreversibly. We are changed forever. With fists clenched, we move towards the light, towards loftier endeavors.

For the graduating class of LHS, this has been a tumultuous high school career. Years of renovations and the striking events of September 11 have turned our worlds upside down. Yet despite all the chaos, we have pulled together. As a school, and as a nation, we have become united. No one can deny that we are on the rise.

◀ Seniors Bruno Duarte, Tony Alvaro, and Art Privedenyuk dissect a rat in anatomy class. "The dissection was fun, but the smell wasn't good. We had to open up the rat and identify the organs," says Tony.

▲ In the guidance office, Senior Kathryn Freeman examines college sources. "The guidance staff was very helpful in directing me towards colleges which had good programs for my major. The general college books were good, but as to individual college books, there wasn't a large selection. I was in the office for a couple months at least twice a week," says Kate.

◀ Senior Randy Placzek works on a variations project for his art class. "We took a picture from a magazine and photocopied it twelve times. We then varied the picture in each box using a different media. I used a car because I thought I could do a lot of things with it." Randy is currently enrolled in art major, the highest level art course offered at LHS.

Student Life

RAISE THE ROOF

► Students find various activities to occupy their time during study blocks. Junior Megan Tourtellotte writes a note while using headphones. "I usually listen to music in my studies because I don't have anything else to do. I listened to music more in the beginning of the year, but now I do work for my study teacher. We are allowed to talk in the study, but not too loud so that those doing work are not disturbed," says Megan.

▲ Sarah Bocon, Leslie Goncalves, Diane Serrazina, and Liz Hangasky play cards during a physical education class that was held in the cafeteria due to the absence of the P.E. instructor. "Liz Hangasky brings cards, and when we're bored, we bring them out. We're not gambling, I swear. I look angry in the picture because I'm not winning. We usually play rummy or go fish. Liz usually wins. There might be some cheating involved..." says Diane.

The students attending Ludlow High School during the 2001-2002 school year were not terribly different from students of past years. Trends in clothing and accessories swept the school. Students hung out at many of the same places and did many of the same things. Yet this year, there was a definite change in attitude within the student body.

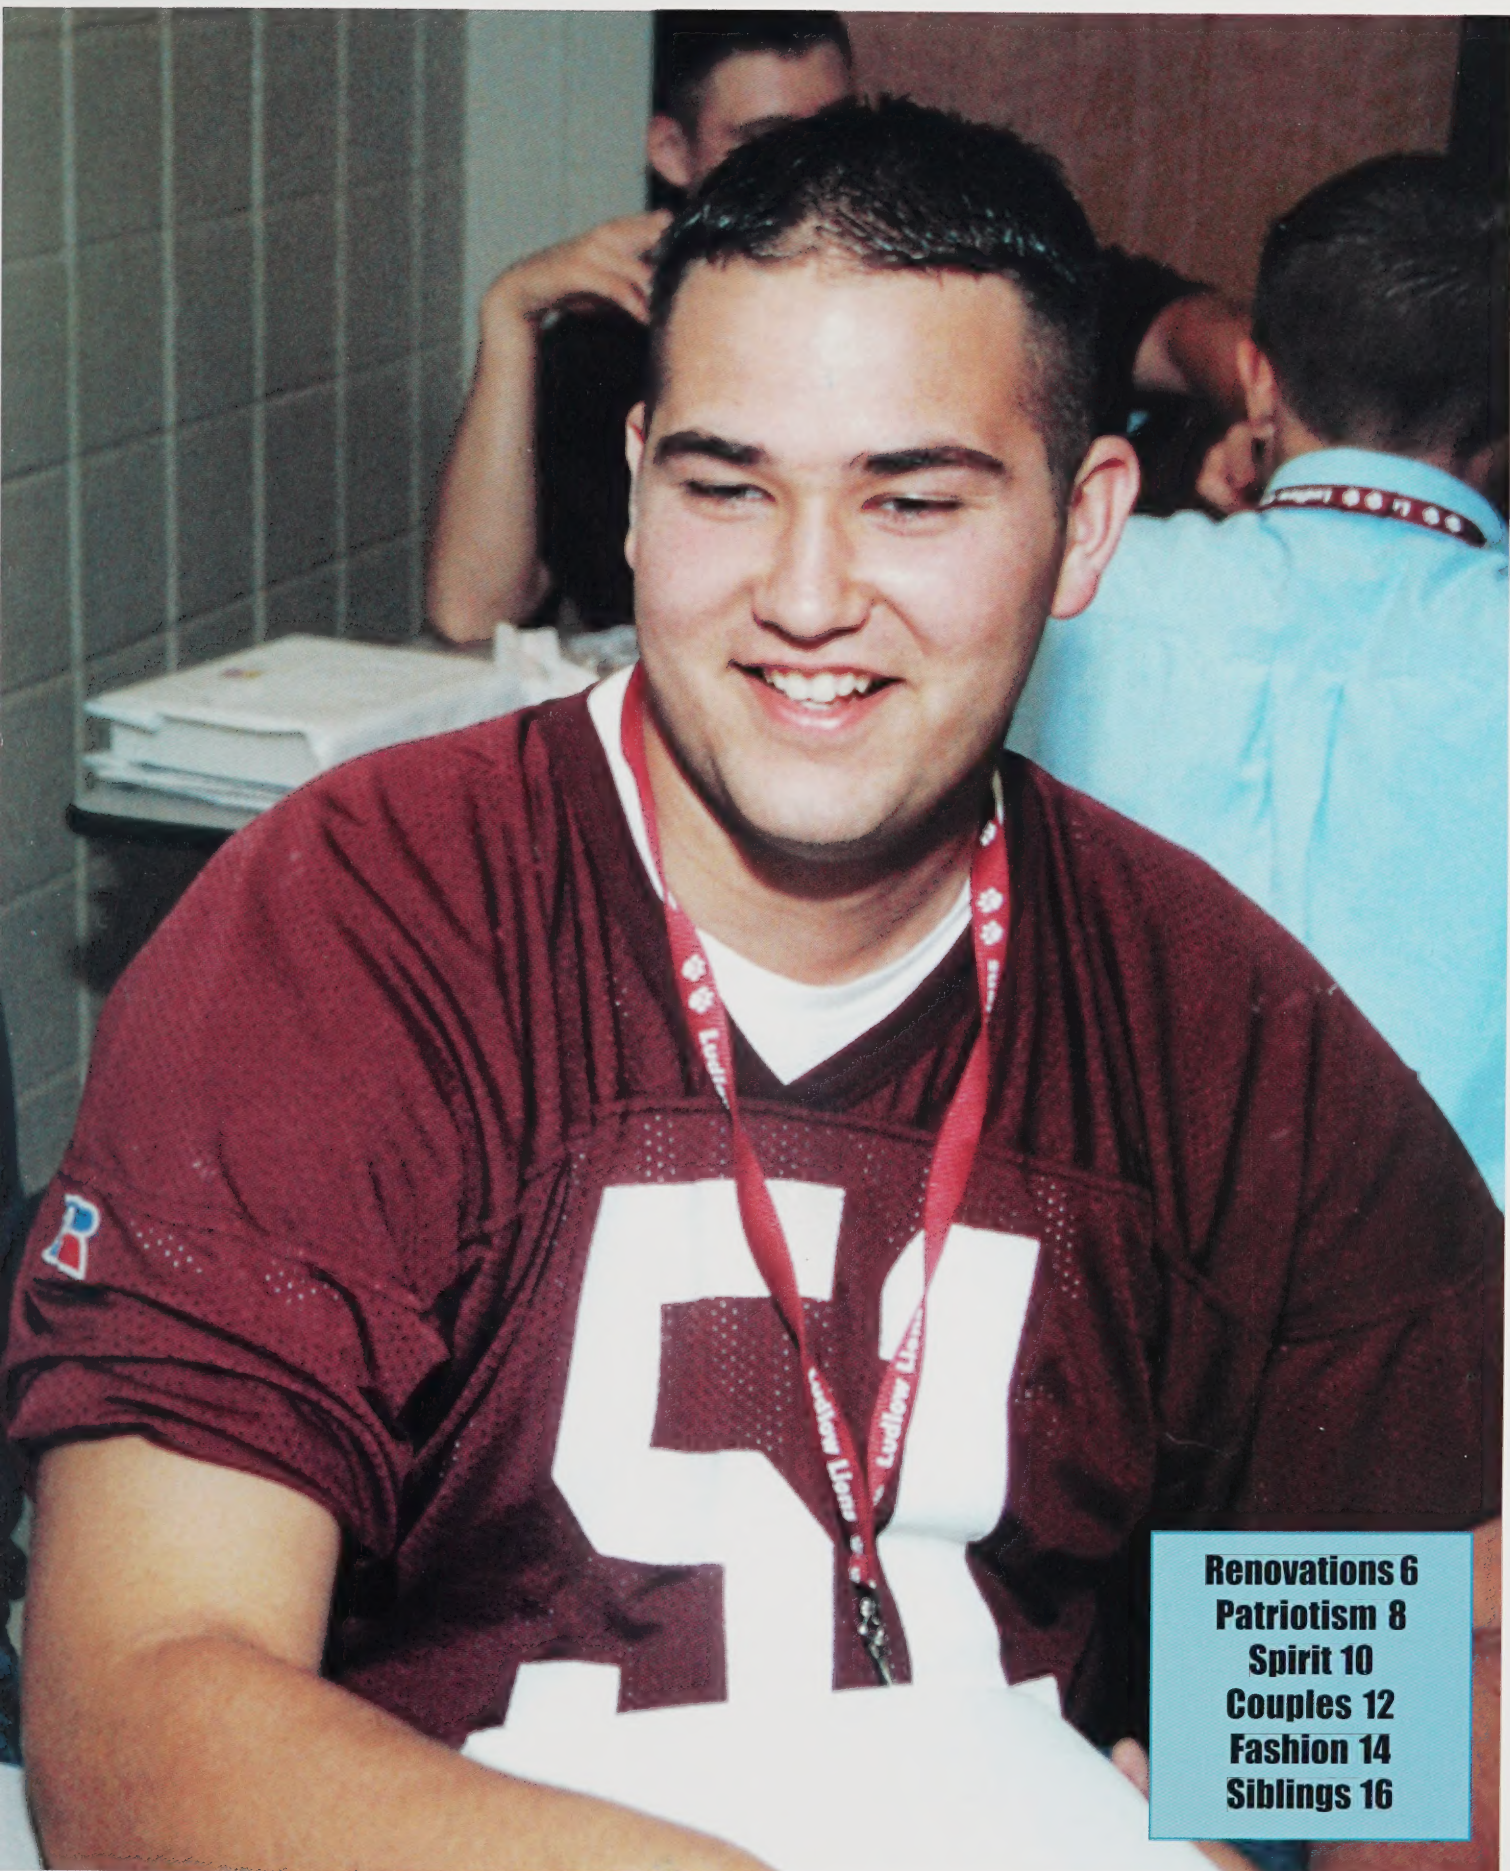

As much as students detested going to school in a building wrapped in yellow tape and swarming with construction workers, no one would deny that the results were worth it. Pride rose as the appearance of the building improved.

World events shook all, yet the reaction of students and faculty was very positive. A great rise in patriotism was visible, as we, like many other schools in many other communities, united in support of our country.

And in the midst of all this, school spirit and enthusiasm seemed to rise to new heights. Between posters and face painting, students supported other students and showed their spirit in ways that were absent in previous years.

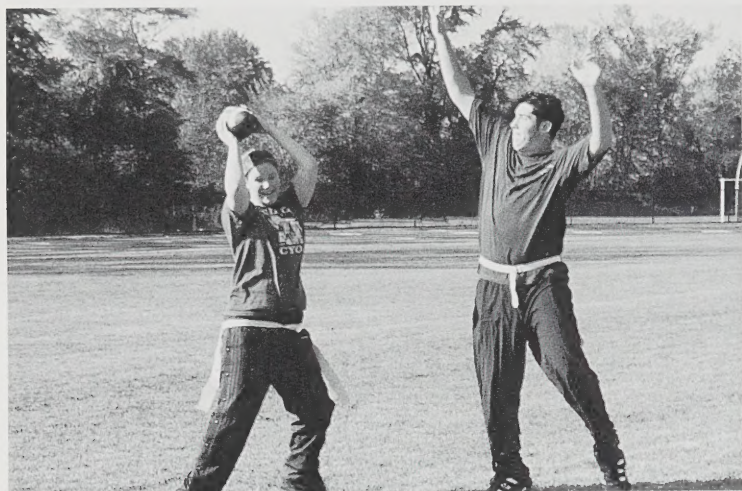

This great increase in morale has shown that we are on the rise.

► During the first weeks of school, senior Eric Slora wore his school ID. "I wore it until the ID cracked. I carry it in my wallet now. No one has said anything to me about it." Many other students have also stopped wearing their ID around their necks, leaving it at home or tying it to a backpack or purse.

RENOVATIONS

On March 23, 1998, the town passed a debt exclusion that allowed the renovation process to begin here at LHS. On September 6, 2001, the renovations were finally completed. The class of 2002, having been present during each year of the renovations, was fortunate enough to be able to spend senior year mostly free of construction. The seniors were also fortunate to be able to enjoy the renovated school for a year, after having put up with yellow tape and dead-end hallways for the bulk of their high school education.

Even though it was a long wait, the students were all surprised with the outcome. Who knew that the field would look so amazing? Many track and field members were thrilled to see that after all this time, Ludlow High finally had a track and that they would be the first to compete on it. The new desks, brightly painted walls, and white boards are only a few examples of how the school's interior improved. One can only imagine how the faculty felt, especially the teachers who have taught at Ludlow High for years.

Before and After

The renovations done on the main stairwell in the 2000-2001 school year left only one door on the first floor which caused serious traffic jams. When students returned to the building in the fall of 2001, another door had been added.

The old chairs were attached to the desks and could not be moved to accommodate people of different sizes. The new desks are not attached to the chairs and move freely.

Before the renovations, athletic teams could only use the back field for practice. Now, the new sports arena holds a soccer/football field, encircled by a track, as well as a baseball diamond. This plus lights and bleachers allow teams to hold games behind the high school.

▲ Senior Allison Meuse takes advantage of the new library computers. "They make research easier, and there are so many of them that you always have access to one." The renovated library also contains entirely new tables and chairs.

Do you like the renovations?

Senior Dan Faria

"The school looks so much better. The desks actually fit, instead of being two inches off the ground with your knees stuck under them."

Junior Matt Assarian

"Now that the school renovations are completed, I feel that the school has become a better learning environment."

Senior Jodi Nascimento

"I think the school looks better and improved. The classrooms seem larger with the new desks."

◀ All furniture on the gym floor has tennis balls covering its legs to prevent scratching. "The floor alone cost tens of thousands of dollars. The tennis balls protect the surface and increase the longevity of the finish," says Mrs. Nancy Kurty.

▼ The new tables and the chairs in the cafeteria differ a great deal from what they looked like previous to the renovations. The tables are now attached to stools. "It used to be really annoying to always have to look for a chair," says Chris Warwick. "Now you don't have to."

Displaying Our Patriotism

The lunch ladies hung American flags on their cash registers.

Following September 11, many individuals decorated their cars with flags.

This is not the only flag pin you will find on students' bags at Ludlow High School. This was one of the pins that the sophomore class executive board made.

This poster was hung from a door in the guidance office. It faced out into the hallway for all to see.

▼ Dr. Cokkinias stands before a poster made by the mural club that hangs in the cafeteria. "I am very proud to be an American and very fortunate to live in a country that fosters so many personal freedoms to its citizens. God Bless America!"

▲ A class stands to recite the Pledge of Allegiance. Jim Goodreau says, "After the attacks, I realized that life is worth more. It's brought me closer to my family. I think we should definitely do the pledge, if nothing else, to remember the people who died."

PATRIOTISM

"The first time I heard about it [the attacks] was when Dr. Cokkinias came over the intercom and told us. I was shocked that something could go down like that. But after I heard the entire story, it all made sense," says sophomore John Kawa. Many other students were similarly shocked on Tuesday, September 11th, when they learned of the terrorist attacks in New York and Washington. Yet the students and faculty remained calm and the rest of the school day was conducted normally. That night, many watched updates on television and were horrified with what they witnessed.

After 9/11, Americans came together and showed their patriotism. LHS students were no exception. The flag could be seen on T-shirts, purses, pins, and backpacks throughout the school. At a girls' varsity volleyball game following the attacks, senior Jodi Nascimento distributed red, white, and blue ribbons that the players wore in their hair. The sophomore class executive board made hundreds of stars and stripes pins and then passed them out all around the school. Flags were placed in each room, allowing the Pledge of Allegiance to be recited each morning.

How has 9/11 affected you?

Junior Katie Lagerstrom

"It's made me more patriotic. I think that it pulled everyone together."

Senior Sherry Pio

"It has affected me because my cousin's best friend was killed. I feel very sorry for the families and give them my deepest sympathy."

Senior Carl Parylak

"My view of patriotism has changed since the recent events. I now realize what my grandfather went to war for and have a deeper respect for those who have lost their lives."

▲ Senior Grant Moran shows his patriotism by wearing a shirt with an American flag. The back panel reads, "The School of Hard Knocks is an essential part of the American way of life...There is no replacement for liberty and justice."

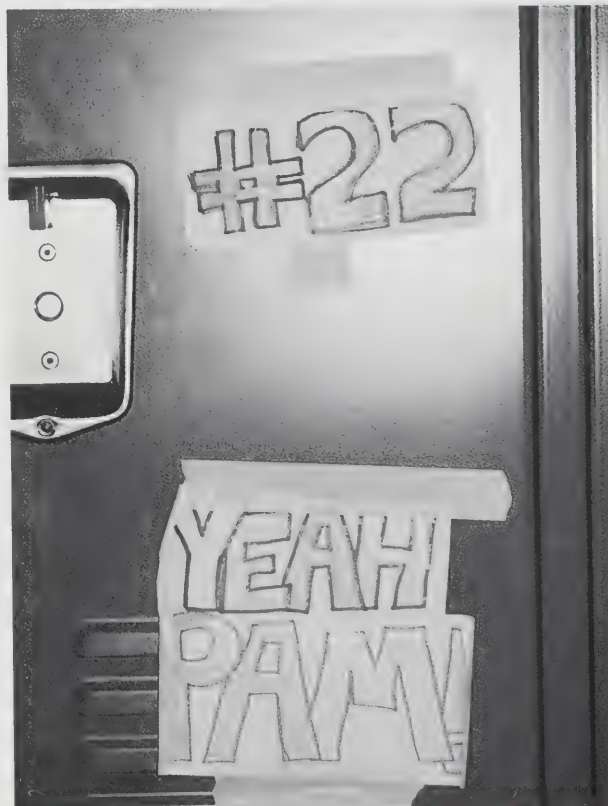

◀ Junior Angel Colby wears a Mickey Mouse flag pin on her bag. "The first I heard of the attacks, it seemed so horrific that something like that could happen, but what really bothers me is that people seem to feel that the attacks are somehow worse just because it happened to our country when it would be just as tragic if it happened to any other country. I don't think that people realize that."

▲ Juniors Amber Goodreau and Ben Taylor wear athletic uniforms to school on the day of a game. "I like to wear my uniform to school on the day of a game rather than dressing up because when I'm in the uniform, everyone knows I play football, but if I'm just dressed up, it could be any sport," says Ben.

► Sophomore Samantha Kojack taped this encouraging sign on Senior Pam Wright's locker. "We [members of the basketball team] pick names out of a hat and then we have to do something to inspire that person for the next game. I left it on my locker for a few months just because I liked it," says Pam.

Where's your school spirit?

Senior Jenn Messier

"I show my school spirit by going to a lot of games and showing my support for all the teams."

Senior Ricky Santos

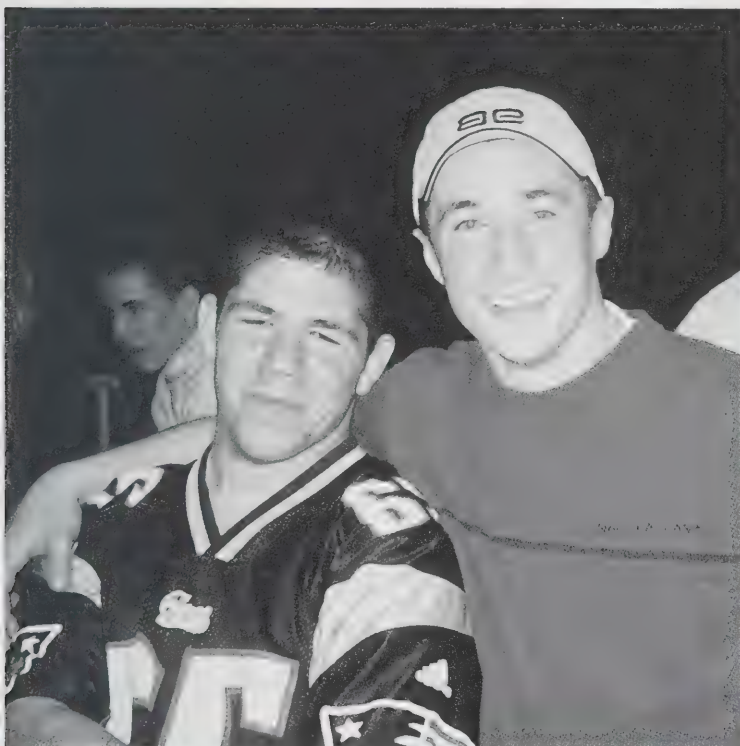

"I go to games and cheer people on. I'm nice and friendly to people in school and respectful to faculty."

Senior Noel Petrolati

"By cheering on my classmates, it makes it more fun to be here. It's important to encourage people to do well and feel their best."

▼ Senior Nick Vantangoli, standing with Mike Diotalevi, wears a New England Patriots jersey to school in support of the team. Nick and a few friends came to school with their faces painted before the Super Bowl, which the Patriots won.

SPIRIT

Maroon was the magic color at LHS this year. To promote this color, student council held School Spirit Day. "We wanted to raise the school spirit throughout the building. We dedicated the day to Lion's pride. Everyone was encouraged to wear maroon and white, and teachers were given ribbons to wear. Lollipops were given to anyone wearing the school colors," says student council president Jaclyn Vilaca.

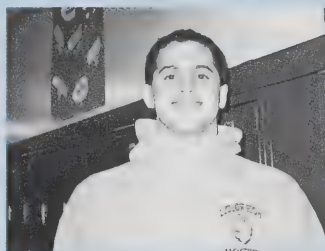

Before games, athletes wore uniforms to school. Students cheered on their friends during games and some even painted their faces maroon and white to show their support. At the final girls' varsity soccer game, a group of supporters actually painted their faces with red lipstick. Junior Seth Reich states, "I bought paint at Jo-Ann Fabrics, but someone else brought red lipstick, and that worked better. It took half an hour to get it off."

The gymnasium was decorated with new banners that proclaimed the years in which sports had won the championships. In every corner of Ludlow High, some sort of school spirit could be found during this school year.

Wearing School Colors

Senior Matthew Pereira wears his LHS soccer jacket. "It shows the pride that I have for our school," says Matt. "All the seniors got a jacket like this for free. The soccer boosters paid for them. It's a very warm jacket."

Senior Matt Hill sports a comfortable, gray LHS hockey hoodie. "I believe in school spirit, and I think everyone should have it. It is what brings the school together and makes it a community," says Matt.

Senior Jodi Lucas wears a maroon sweatshirt. Written on the front are the words "Ludlow Lions" with a lion's head sandwiched in between. "I've had this sweatshirt for two years, and I am proud of Ludlow sports teams. I am glad that I got the experience to play on the Ludlow soccer team for four years," says Jodi.

► Freshmen Katelyn Collette and Mike Day have been going together for eight months. "We see each other daily. We don't fight a lot, but when we do, it's because of jealousy," says Katelyn.

▼ Seniors Kate Freeman and Rob Kukla have been together since October of 2001. "He asked me out during our junior year, and I said no, but he persisted, and this year I said yes," says Kate. "I walk her to her class just about every day," says Rob. "Then I sprint to class to get there on time."

Seniors, what's in the future?

Seniors Lauren Mislak, Brock Gaspar
"We didn't apply to the same schools, so we're definitely not going to the same college. We'll see what happens," says Brock.

Seniors Sue Rodrigues, Joe Shanley
"We've talked about the future, and we plan on staying together. Our relationship is full of drama, but I think we'll resolve our problems," says Joe.

Seniors Bruno Duarte, Jessica Zina
"Even though we won't be attending the same school, we hope to continue our relationship," says Jessica.

COUPLES

The bell has rung and you're walking down the hallway. A couple reunites after a block of separation. They show their affection before their fellow students. Does this bother you? Many find public displays of affection to be disturbing and irritating. "I just find it annoying when people are overly affectionate when I'm trying to get to my locker or to class," says junior Meghan Dolan.

Yet some will admit that their irritation towards couples is fueled by their own single status. "Whenever I see happy couples, I wish that was me," says junior Amanda Santos.

People in our age group date for many reasons and hold differing overall views of what a relationship should be. Sophomore Joanna DaCruz states, "In a relationship, trust is important because it will never work out if you don't trust the person you're with." Others are not as serious about relationships at this age. Junior Derek Gosselin says, "I like a girl who likes to have fun." Whatever way you look at it, relationships tend to be a big part of teenage life.

▼ Juniors Amy Rodrigues and Marcio Duarte have been together since October of their sophomore year. "We trust each other, so that's what makes it last. We don't have the same classes, but we share a locker so that's the only time we see each other throughout the day," says Amy.

The Inter-class Connection

Senior Brian Tetrault and junior Jenn Howard have been going out for nine months. "It's hard to go out with a senior because I know he won't be here next year. I tell him not to mention the 'c' word (college) because it reminds me that graduation is in May," says Jenn.

Freshman Lauren O'Neill and senior Scott Mahoney have only been dating for a short while, yet "we argue about everything," says Scott, "every little thing. We just argue about stupid stuff." Lauren comments, "It's a lot of fun to date a senior. You don't have to be driven everywhere by parents. But sometimes there are problems with my mom because of the age difference. Sometimes she doesn't let me go places with him as much as I would like to."

▲ After a year, sophomores Adam Madera and Karen Miele maintain a strong relationship. "We were friends for a year before dating. Before that, we didn't get along. We disagree at times, but we haven't had a serious argument yet," says Karen.

▼ Junior Christina Faria wears her hair in corn rows. "It took about an hour," says Christina. "Sheri Roxo did it for me for $10. I think it's cool and different. I kept it in for about a week. And yes, I washed it during the week!" Many girls tried out this hairstyle during the school year.

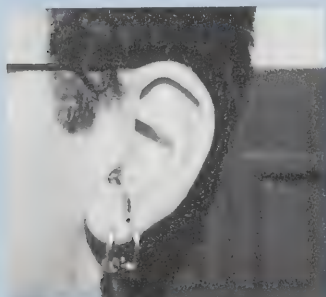

Body Decoration

Junior Jesse Morrisette has his lip, eyebrow, and ear pierced. "On a scale from one to ten for pain, the lip piercing was about an eight and the eyebrow piercing was a six. I have had the lip ring for about six months and the eyebrow ring for about a month and a half. I prefer to wear loops, but when it first was pierced, it was a stud," says Jesse.

Senior Cameron Stanuch has four piercings in his ear. "It didn't hurt that bad to get them pierced. I guess I got them pierced to be different. I don't know where, but I know I'll end up with some more piercings," says Cam.

Senior Tiffany Duchesne has three tattoos on her body. "I got my tattoo because I go to the beach a lot and I liked the sun design. I have two more: a Chinese symbol and a butterfly. I don't plan on getting any more," says Tiffany.

FASHION

"Trendy" would be a word that describes fashion amongst students at LHS. Students tend to buy clothes which stores put out as their seasonal look. Such stores include Express, Gap, Wetseal, American Eagle, Structure, and Charlotte Russe.

There are many popular styles among girls this year. One popular look is short skirts with black "go-go boots." Also, discolored jeans with thick belts and fitted T-shirts seem to be a popular look. Girls also like to add flavor to their outfits by dressing them up with silver chunky jewelry and big handbags.

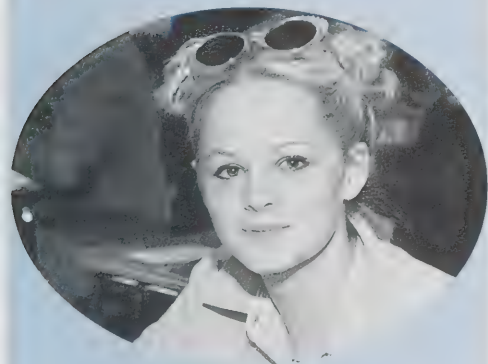

Guys also have a style of their own. Similar looks seem to be jeans and a button down shirt with a T-shirt underneath. Brand name boots are also very popular. Some of these brand names are Timberland and Buffalino.

Other students prefer to go against the "trendy" look and sport their own. These students prefer to wear big pants and shirts promoting their favorite bands. Whether they sport the "trendy" look or they have their own individual style, appearance is an obvious concern of students at LHS.

▲ Senior Jenn Russell wears a Gap hoodie. "I think Gap hoodies are the style because everyone has one. I bought mine because it looked comfortable. I wore it because I was really tired and I didn't feel like getting ready," says Jenn.

What influences your style?

Junior Kate Romansky

"I ripped my style directly off of my friends, Jay Lavoie, Kerri Padgett, and Debbie Tarsa."

Senior Kristen Martin

"Basically, I wear what I want. If I see anything really interesting or that I find sticks out, I buy it. I have a fancy for lace and layering."

Junior George Barroso, Freshman Maren Gulbrandsen

"I dress in an EMO syle. I like to wear bandannas because they hold my hair back," says George.

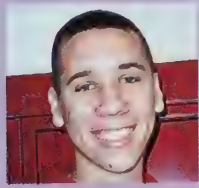

◀ Junior Beth Cochenour, walking with freshman Sarah Levesque, sports the trendy go-go boots that swept through the school this year, as well as a knit sweater. "I wear these boots because they're the style and I like the way they look. I wear the jacket because it's comfortable," says Beth.

▼ Junior John Pereira wears a backpack with a strap that crosses over the chest, rather than the traditional backpack with two shoulder straps. "I like the way it looks," says John. This style of backpack was a hit with both sexes.

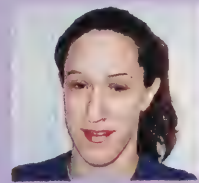

Telling Twins Apart

Seniors Nicholas and Matthew Mol both plan to attend UMass. "We're not going to room together because we've roomed together for 17 years. We both want to go into engineering, but different fields," says Matt. One can tell the difference between the two by noting the mole on Matt's chin. "Matt tends to be louder, too," says senior Brent Kowal.

Seniors Crystal and Jennifer Mateus like similar clothes and shop at the same stores, but they do have differences.

"Jenn is shorter, her hair color is more reddish, and she has a more laid back, comfortable style," says Crystal. "And I always wear a gold necklace with a dolphin charm."

The Varandas twins, sophomores Ricardo and Bruno, used to share a skater style of dress. Now, Bruno tends to dress more preppy. "Once you get to know us, you can just tell who's who," says Ricky.

▲ Sophomore Jeff Ribeiro receives a friendly hug from his brother, Matt, a senior. "We don't usually acknowledge each other in the hallways," says Jeff. "People say we look alike even though I don't think we do. I've gotten used to it by now."

▼ Michelle (senior) and Shawn (junior) O'Rourke pretend not to see each other as they pass. "We refuse to talk to each other in school. It's weird to see each other in the hallway because we act like we don't know each other," says Michelle.

SIBLINGS

One thing that can always be found in the hallways of Ludlow High are similar faces. The school is filled with siblings. Some look so similar that it's obvious to anyone that they are related. This is true of senior Lauren and freshman Erin Mislak. "People always walk up to me in the halls and ask me if I'm related to Lauren," says Erin. "We always get confused by teachers and friends of ours."

Other siblings look so dissimilar that it is almost a shock that they are related. Juniors Celia and Kristen Demers are unidentical twins, yet they do not look at all alike. "People sometimes don't even think we're sisters. We're very unlike. We're like night and day," says Kristen.

But don't be fooled; there are many students at LHS that look similar but are entirely unrelated. Sophomores Katie Lucas and Courtney Costa are in this predicament. "People say we look alike. I think we do in a way. It doesn't bother me. We're very good friends. It's partly because we are always together," says Katie.

Do you look alike?

Senior Lisa André

"It bothers me when people say [Cristina and I] look alike because I don't think we resemble each other at all."

Sophomore Jessica Chase

"People say [Amy and I] look alike, and sometimes they confuse us. Even though they say this, we think we look different. We're very close, and I'm going to miss her next year."

"I don't think [Chris and I] look alike, but people say we do. It doesn't really bother me."

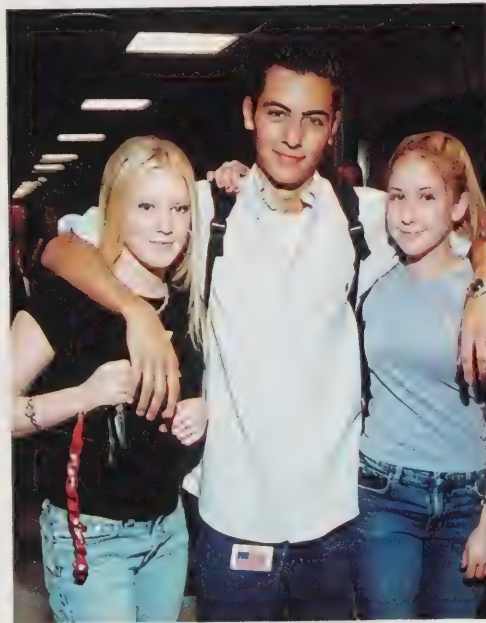

▲ Senior Lindsey Palatino enjoys attending the same school as her brother Christopher, a sophomore. "My brother is the coolest kid ever. But I think he's afraid of me. When I try to talk to him in the halls, he ignores me and runs away. Sometimes I chase him," says Lindsey. Chris does not return her fondness: "I don't like having her at LHS because she annoys me."

◀ Junior Josh Yelle tries to look out for his sister, Marisa, a sophomore. "I think it's my obligation as a brother," says Josh. "Having an older brother in high school is good because I have someone to look up to," says Marisa. "But it's annoying to be known as Josh's younger sister. I'm not...He's my older brother!"

The People

RISE AND SHINE

► Freshman Alexandra Norwood and sophomores Zachary Falconer and Brittany Mariani cluster in the hall after lunch. "I pretty much always hang out in the halls after lunch," says Brittany. "We just sit around and talk and wait for the bell to ring. It's usually the same crowd. It's good to relax for a little while after being stuck in class all day."

▲ Far from being camera shy, senior Stacy Lucas eagerly displays a Dorito during lunch. "I think people at LHS are very friendly, helpful, and outgoing," says Stacy. "When high school is over, I'll miss waking up and seeing my friends every morning."

With a loud, disturbing blare of noise, the alarm clock sounds the start of a new day. It is the first day of school and students must rise and shine.

Many students put extra effort into their appearance on the first day of school. "The only day of the entire year when I remotely care about my appearance is on the first day," says Nate Cabana.

This is especially true of freshmen. "I used to get up in the morning a lot earlier as a freshman," says Megan Coelho. "I never thought I had enough time."

Cruising the halls, upperclassmen encounter many familiar faces as well as several new ones. The bulk of the latter are freshmen, most of whom are looking rather confused as they attempt to navigate the unfamiliar building. Freshman Sara Bray describes her first day: "I was nervous because I didn't know where to go, but I felt comfortable after because I got to know everyone. I had to ask about three upperclassmen for directions. They were nice. They helped me out and didn't give me a hard time about it."

This year, not all the new faces were freshmen. Several new teachers joined the faculty. These include Mr. Hollington Lee, Miss Jessica Czuprynski, Mr. Gary Elson, Mr. Brian Mulvehill, Mrs. Jennifer Picard, Mr. Richard Oliveira, Mrs. Tracy Blair, Mrs. Teresa Brenton, Ms. Lisa Lavigne, and Mr. Robert Johnston.

These new faces have brought fresh energy to our school. "Mr. Mulvehill is really excited about teaching. He seems really into his work," says freshman Cara Stokowski. The new teachers, with their untainted enthusiasm, have invariably contributed to our rise.

► Senior Scott Mahoney plays with a puppet monkey. "It belongs to Steve Deptula. I thought it was kind of cool and wanted to borrow it. I carried it around all day. Quite a few people asked me about it because they probably thought that it was strange," says Scott.

"To Carry with Us Always"

By Kerri Line

*As crowded hallways empty
Our words and laughter fade.
We hug and cry and look back
On the memories we've made.
We look forward too, and think of
All the places we will go,
But as we leave this world behind
What do we have to show?
Notebook pages filled with Words we'll soon forget,
And a few more empty pages
For what we haven't learned as yet,
Ticket stubs and programs
Filled with important people's names,
And the blankets that we brought
To frigid, late-night football games.
Pictures full of smiling faces,
Dark suits and sparkling dresses,
And at least a couple wrinkles
From tears and pain and stresses.
But there's something more intangible
We'll carry with us always
Years spent between these walls
And laughter in these hallways.*

► Juniors Josh Yelle and Thomas Midura sell tickets for the junior banquet, which was entitled "Hugs and Kisses." "Selling the banquet tickets was pretty fun because you can get an idea of who is going," comments Josh. The function was held at the Yankee Pedlar Inn in Holyoke where a buffet was served while DJ Greg Gaudreau spun all of the latest dance tracks.

Junior Executive Board

The junior executive board started out this year with some turbulent waters that they needed to tread through. The year began with the impeachment of their president and a failed field trip early in the year to the Howe Caverns in Coopers-town, New York. Soon after, however, the board recovered electing a new vice president, planning a successful field trip to the Boston Aquarium, presenting Senior Assembly, and hosting a well-attended banquet.

"I think that our executive board worked really well together this year. We had a lot of obstacles to overcome, but we did a good job working everything out and making our junior year a success," says Vice President Allie Yanka.

► Class Advisors: Mr. Mark Augusto, Mr. John Lattanzio, and Mr. Kurt Anderson. Commenting on the executive board, Mr. Anderson says, "The executive board worked hard and did a great job representing the class of 2003. They are all outstanding students who will be successful in life."

Saying Farewell to the Seniors

One of the largest tasks for the junior executive board was planning Senior Assembly. An homage to their older friends and mentors, Senior Assembly is an extravagant good-bye celebration that includes picture slide-shows, presentation of awards and gifts, graduating students presenting their parents with letters, and skits that require hours of practice, including one mocking many well known seniors starring Jen DeSousa, Derek Chandonnet, and Amelie Lonczak (above).

Student of the Week

Although some people think the Student of the Week award is only for those who excel in academics or athletics, it's not. As Mrs. Mancuso points out, "Student of the Week is not made for sports or high honors, it is for those who have shown improvement or have done something deserving of recognition." Even though it is not strictly intended for excellence in academics, recipients are sometimes those that do excel.

The names of students who receive the award are announced over the loud speaker by Dr. Cokkinias, every Thursday during 6th period. This is followed by a recitation of the student's merits.

◀ Mrs. Mancuso holds the new maroon and white T-shirt for Student of the Week recipients. "We ran out of the gray shirts and Sr. Zina ordered a different type," says Mrs. Mancuso.

The Groovy Rewards

After the identity of the Student of the Week is revealed to all over the loudspeaker, the student is asked to report to the main office. There, he or she is given a T-shirt and a certificate of recognition. His or her name is also placed on the marquee outside. Until the following Thursday, when a new Student of the Week will be selected, all who pass by the high school will see that student's name.

◀ Senior Mike Hastings shakes hands with senior Joe Coddling as the latter heads to the office to receive his certificate and T-shirt. "I happened to be coming down the hall and saw one of the finest students at LHS, Joe Coddling, so I had to congratulate him on being Student of the Week," says Mike. "Being Student of the Week was an honor," says Joe. He wore his T-shirt to school on the following day.

▲ Mrs. Gayle Thomas, Mrs. Nancy Guinipero, and Mrs. Mancuso congratulate senior Jolie Glanville. Jolie was nominated for her help in the office. "I enjoyed being Student of the Week," says Jolie. "I wore my T-shirt to school the next day."

► Senior Pat Karalekas eats lunch from behind a large pile of books. "The books aren't really a problem. Usually I only need to carry around one book at a time," he says. Others often carry many more.

▲ Senior Shandoah Mason carries her books between classes, while junior Jackie Jones keeps hers in her backpack. "This is less time consuming than to go to my locker... I'm not even sure where my locker is!" says Shandoah. Even if students know where their lockers are, many students just don't have enough time to get to them between classes.

► Junior Meghan Dolan sits with books both above and below her desk. "Having so many books usually isn't a problem for me, except that it causes such a clutter, and they are hard to carry from class to class," she says. Many students feel that books get in the way.

► JUNIORS ►

A Necessary Evil

Books. You just can't avoid them. They're everywhere: in your locker, beneath your chair, in your backpack, or in your arms. Books permeate every aspect of education. Whether it's a notebook, a textbook, a binder, or a day planner, students always have books with them during the schoolday. They can become quite a burden. "Books really ended up being a pain. There's hardly time to get to your locker between classes, so you end up almost breaking your back just trying to carry your books," says valedictorian Liz Barros.

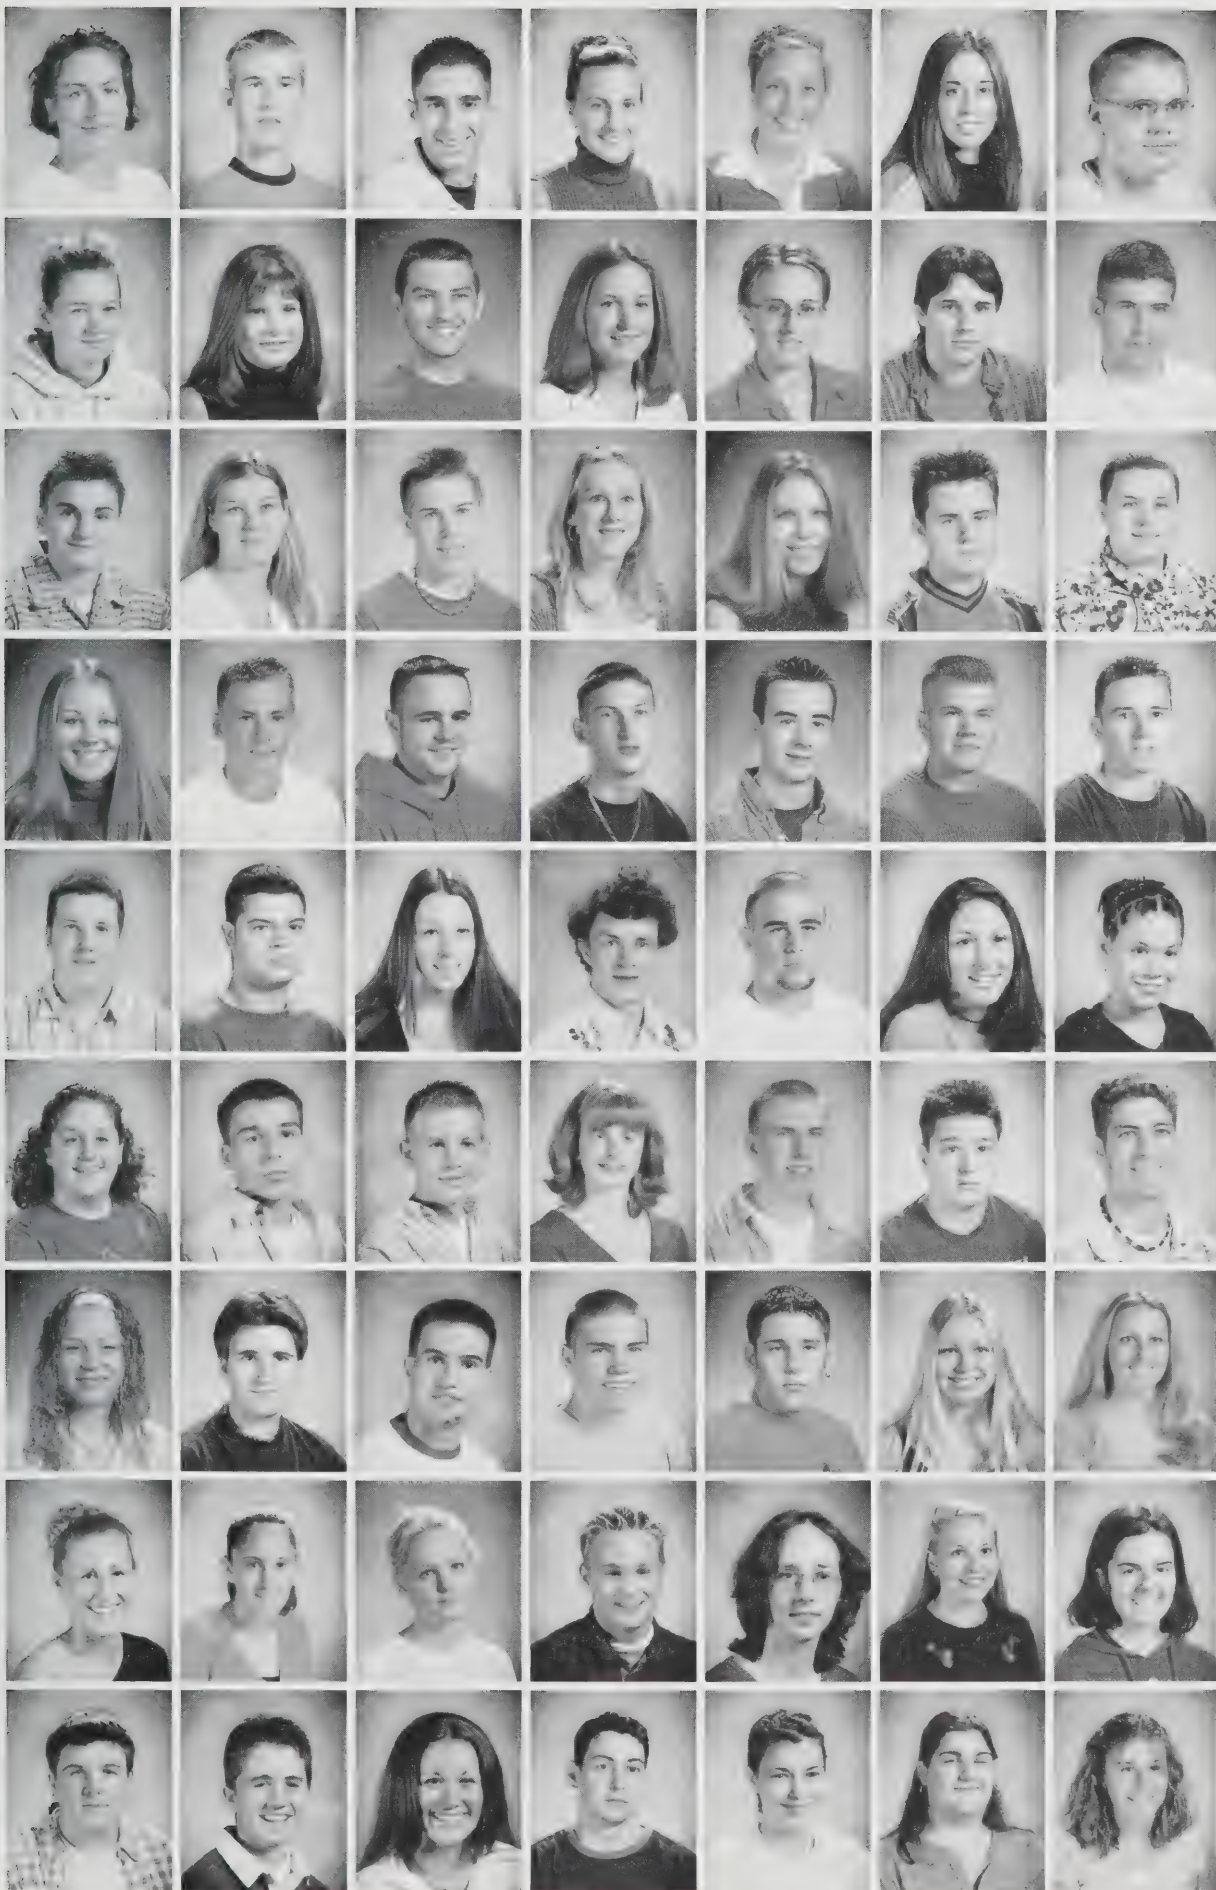

The new lockers in the upper floors offer more efficient storage space for students and are therefore more apt to be used throughout the day.

Books Serving Alternate Purposes

While books may be a burden to carry, they can also be very useful. For example, though they are not exactly soft and fluffy, they will serve as a pillow when necessary. "It was first period on a Monday morning. The book wasn't very comfortable, but it's all I had," explains senior

Stephanie Rosa. As well, if a chair or a desk is wobbly, one can shove a book under the short leg to make it leveled. They are also great for holding loose papers.

How has your junior year been different from previous years?

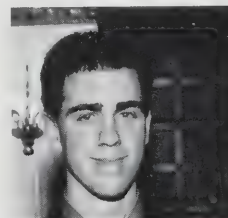

► "I am more beautiful, and I can't wait to get out into the world so that everyone can experience my 'gorgeousnes,'" says Andrea Ferreira.

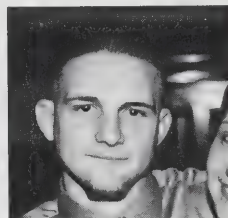

► "When I was a freshman in soccer, I used to get picked on by older players. Now I'm a junior on varsity. I get more respect," says Michael Lalli.

► "This year feels different mostly because of the renovations. It's nice to have a new school," says Chris Lavoie.

◄ "I think junior year has been the hardest so far. The classes are so much harder than last year," says Adam Glista.

◄ "School is a lot harder. But people seem to be getting along and becoming friends compared to other years," says Michele Aguilar.

◄ "Junior year is a lot more hectic, but it is a lot more fun because I can drive," says Daniel Marques.

After School Blues

Everyone knows about it, maybe some of us have even been a part of it. Late to class? Didn't return your progress report? You may find yourself in detention, an after-school session to get to know your teacher better. Many teachers have their own unique form of punishment to apply to an offending student. Some teachers are traditional and give in-class, quiet detentions in which the student is forced to sit at his or her desk for a predetermined amount of time. Other teachers, like Mrs. Kelley, have the offending student perform little chores to pass their time away. "I never believe in wasting time. Everyone should do something useful at all times," says Mrs. Kelley about her unique form of punishment, boardwashing.

I'd rather be in his detention than an office detention because his are more relaxed and I can get extra help at the same time," says Josh.

Mr. Marino: The Man Behind the Management

The position of dean of students was created to see that the rules of the handbook are enforced. Mr. Marino states, "We are very lucky and fortunate because only a small percent of the student body is disruptive." Most of the students who serve office detention were late to school. On average, there are 25 to 30 students in office detention each day, Monday through Thursday.

◀ Junior Danielle Cooley attends an office detention after school. "Office detention is boring," says Danielle. "There's nothing to do. You can't talk. You just sit there. Most of the time I don't have homework to do either. Usually when I get detention, it's for being late to school in the morning. It lasts about fifty minutes. Mr. Cote doesn't usually make you stay for the full hour."

Sophomore Executive Board

The sophomores had a very eventful year full of activities. Class President Marisa Yelle sums the year up best. She says, "After Sept. 11th, our field trip possibilities were very limited, but we did manage to plan a trip to the Newport Mansions in the fall. Banquet also came early in the year and we had a great time planning that event."

Speaking about the executive board in particular, Marisa says, "I think that we communicated very well with all the members of our class. I also think that the key to our success has been our organization. Even though we don't always get along, we pull together to get the job done. I feel that the next two years can only get better."

I could never imagine living in a house like that," says Cristina. The day began with tours of The Marble House and The Breakers. The day ended with shopping in downtown Newport.

Making Ribbons After 9/11

Sophomore Jake Oliveira makes ribbons out of fabric with a stars and stripes print. The executive board convened on a Saturday morning at Mrs. Will's house to make the ribbons shortly after the tragedies in New York and Washington. The sophomore class felt that it needed to help out. The pins were then passed out during lunches to all students. Mrs. Will explains, "After the tragedies we all felt helpless and needed to take action in some way."

Lunch Periods Shortened

Many students drone through their morning classes waiting for the lunch bell to ring. This year, lunch was shortened to twenty-two minutes with four minutes passing time before and after the period. Last year, lunch was thirty minutes with four minutes before and after the period. This year, students barely have time to eat after waiting in long lines to get food. The average student waits in line for their lunch for approximately ten minutes every day in one of the three lines. Due to the shortened lunch period, students have only about twelve minutes to eat their food. If the students do not get through the lines in ten minutes or less, they may not have time to eat.

What's lurking in the LHS freezer?

When you stick your hand in the freezer, what do you expect to find? Milk, water, a Capri Sun? Maybe, maybe not. You might just happen to find a steak and cheese sandwich. This steak and cheese sandwich somehow made its way from its home in the a la carte line to its new home in the freezer among the beverages. This is an inexplicable phenomenon, and no one knows exactly how it got there.

◀ Seniors Kristin Joyal and Kristine Axiotis eat deli. "I eat the same exact lunch from deli every single day. The line is too long because by the time I get my lunch, the period is over," says Kristin. The deli lines tend to be the longest and move the slowest.

▲ Lunch time is not only a time to eat lunch but also a time to talk to friends that students may not see during the day. Seniors Matt Pereira, Dan Martins, and Matt Ribeiro sit in the senior lounge conversing with friends. Matt says, "The lunch ladies are what I will miss the most, they are awesome."

Poster Craze

This year, it is a common occurrence to walk through the hallways of LHS and see posters hanging on the walls. Many clubs, sports, and organizations have been affected by this "poster craze."

Students who attend sport games make signs for their favorite players and hang them in the gymnasium. Small signs with sayings such as "Go Pam!" appeared on lockers.

Students can always learn about what is new to buy at the school store by reading the posters made by the entrepreneurship students and hung around the school. "We made posters to advertise products that we were selling in the school store," says senior Jessica Barbeau.

Discouraging Destructive Decisions

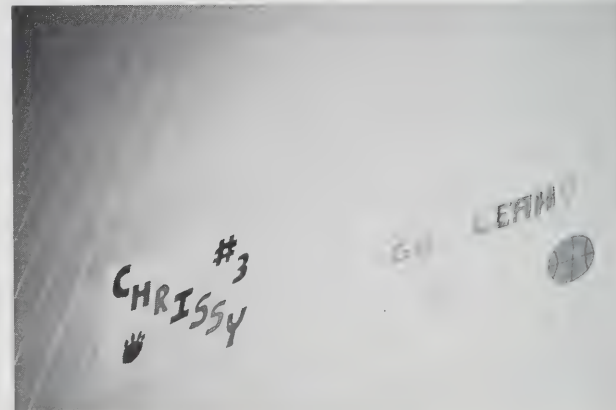

The organization Students Against Destructive Decisions has been very busy making posters this year. The purpose of the posters is to educate students about the effects of making decisions that are harmful to their health. Under the guidance of S.A.D.D.'s public relations manager, senior Aislinn Emirzian, junior

S.A.D.D. members Katie Vomero and Amelie Lonczak make posters to hang in the hallways.

▲ The Portuguese classes made colorful posters, like the one shown above, to advertise the Red Carnation Revolution flower sale. This year was the 28th anniversary of the original Red Carnation Revolution, when the streets of Portugal were covered in red carnations. The students sell carnations in honor of the anniversary every year.

► Throughout the basketball season, the gymnasium walls were covered with posters such as these shown. The posters were made for members of the girls' varsity basketball team and featured colorful pictures as well as the players' names and numbers.

A Little Bit of Everything

This year our classes experienced a change. Each month was devoted towards one subject. Each morning, following the routine announcements, a voice echoed through the classrooms, posing questions. Students scribbled their guesses on scrap paper and submitted their entries. Prizes were awarded for correct answers. Gift certificates and movie passes were only some of the prizes.

One day in each month was especially devoted to the respective subject and teachers gave their best attempts at showing students the relationship between their subject and that one. The purpose of it all? To explain how every area of study at LHS is equally important to every other subject.

Feeling Poetic

The English department decided to stray from the traditional questions of the week and coordinate a poetry poster contest. Accepting entries from all grades, only 17 winners were chosen. Winners read their poems over the intercom, one every day in April. Mrs. Suzanne Kelley aided them in practicing the reading of their poems. Here, freshman Jessica Lamica carefully reads her poem, "Be a Friend" by Edgar Guest, over the school's intercom.

◀ Portuguese II students show off their projects dealing with important places and landmarks in Portugal's capital, Lisbon. ► FRESHMEN ►

Freshman Executive Board

The freshman executive board had a mellow year. The group planned only one event, but it did hold a highly successful fundraiser. With that fundraiser, the school-wide entertainment book sale, the freshman class made more money than any of the other three classes that participated. The class sold around 500 books and made $10.00 from each sale.

The one event that the board planned was the freshman banquet, held at the Ludlow Elks Club. "Because you couldn't bring upperclassmen, a lot of people did not want to go at first. As much as people said that they weren't going to the banquet, they ended up going and having a great time," says board member Angela Wozniak.

Field Day

Freshman Class President Danielle Petrolati crawls through the obstacle course on Field Day. This year the administration took the freshman executive board's idea to have a "field day" instead of end-of-the-year field trips and made it a reality. The idea was suggested by Mr. Brillo when he heard of a company that rented out inflatable "moon bounce" attractions. "Field Day was a great success for the first year. In bringing all of the classes together we have united the school," says Mr. Brillo.

Holiday Spirit

When the holiday seasons come around, many people throughout LHS get into the holiday spirit. Whether people dress in holiday fashion, exchange gifts with friends, or decorate classrooms, everyone likes to share a bit of holiday spirit with everyone else.

During the Christmas season, many classrooms are decorated, and students exchange gifts. Some teachers will give out candy canes or chocolates to their students. Some students and faculty also like to dress in holiday styles by wearing holiday colors, Santa Claus hats, or even cloth reindeer antlers to celebrate Christmas.

◀ Even the cafeteria workers share the holiday spirit with students. Mrs. Audrey Hibbard sports a Christmas-colored apron with Santa Clauses and candy canes. Decorations are also put up in the cafeteria. "We keep it all downstairs and put it up on holidays," says cafeteria worker Mrs. Cheryl Matthes.

Spreading the Holiday Spirit

During the holiday season, many students throughout LHS spread the holiday spirit by giving gifts to each other. Senior Chalimar Sanchez, senior Allison Meuse, and junior Fatima Abdullah exchange gifts with one another during the Christmas holiday. "Exchanging gifts at Christmas time is a great way to show your friends how much you care about them," said Allison.

◀ The LHS librarian Mrs. Jane Thompson created a Christmas display to decorate the table at the front entrance of the library. This festive collection of Christmas symbols included a snowman, reindeer, and Christmas plants. The display was up for most of the winter season before Christmas. "The display was made to go with a poster that said 'Happy Season Readings,'" said Mrs. Thompson.

▲ Senior Michelle O'Rourke is "pretty in pink" for Valentine's Day, and she wears a heart sticker on her cheek. This senior did not intentionally wear pink for the holiday, but says that it was just a coincidence. "I guess I wore the heart because all of my friends were wearing them too," said Michelle.

Worksheets Everywhere

Physical education class used to be comprised mostly of staple sports like soccer or football supplemented with the occasional mindless running of laps. However, times are changing, and today's physical education curriculum finds students working on worksheets. The worksheet trend was started by Mrs. Rebecca Gauvin. She believes the worksheets show how the activities pertain to everyday life. The worksheets also reinforce the rules and purpose of the activities. Mr. Timothy Brillo and Mr. Graves have also used worksheets in their classes. This year, students had the option to choose their own activities. Some activities were archery, lacrosse, softball, games, hiking, relaxation, and football.

► Junior Heather Leone busily reads a worksheet handed out during one of her gym classes. Worksheets are becoming much more popular among the gym teachers but not so popular among the students. Heather shares the feelings of many students. "I don't really like doing work in gym class because it should be athletic," she says.

▲ Senior Amanda Howard and Junior Yolanda Kruczkowski work on a body mass worksheet that was handed out in class. The worksheet helps students classify themselves into a fit or unfit category. The worksheets also help students realize their fitness goals. Their goals would later be written into an essay. However, Yolanda says, "I feel the worksheets are unnecessary. Gym class should be a time where we can run around. I do the same work in gym class as I do in my other classes."

► Mrs. Rebecca Gauvin reviews a worksheet with Junior Matt Chaplin. "The worksheets correspond with the activity we are doing in class. It's mostly safety information," says Mrs. Gauvin. According to Mr. Brillo, the worksheets are nothing new. "It's been done for the past 30 years," he says.

Bull's Eye

Physical education students participating in archery had to learn how to effectively determine their scores. This was taught in a unique game. Students had to randomly pick an object out of a bag, which, in junior Joe Almeida's case, was a squeaky plastic bird. The students had to throw their object at a target. Then, they would count up their scores as if the objects were arrows. This activity allowed them to practice keeping score.

What adjustments did you make entering high school?

► "I didn't really change anything. I was just myself, but I did join different sports," says Sarah Pfefferkorn.

◀ "I changed my attitude going from eighth grade from being a big shot to being a little guy again," says Greg Abdow.

► "I realized that I had to work a lot harder at getting good grades. It didn't come easy like it did in middle school," says Nick Bruschi.

◀ "I adjusted myself to the new building, but I managed to find my way around," says Tiffany Goncalves.

Camera Shyness

Some people love attention and, likewise, love being photographed. Then there are those who have an acute case of camera shyness and will go to great lengths to avoid having their picture taken. These people try to dodge the camera with a variety of tactics, from a simple head turn to trying to hide themselves inside an article of clothing.

Despite the fact that many of these people are ordinarily outgoing, when faced with a camera, they quickly try to get out of sight. "I think people are camera shy because they are too self-conscious," says freshman Alicia Anderson. Whenever there is a camera around, you can be sure that these individuals won't be.

◀ Senior Brian Tetrault raises his hands as if protecting himself from a blow. "The only cameras I really hate are the ones that fire a bullet at you when the picture is taken, like in the cartoons," he says.

Camera Boldness

On the opposite extreme, there are those students who are always ready to strike a pose. Sophomores Alex Nogueira, Kyle Davis, Herb Littlecreek, Jesse Perreira, Jeff Francisco, and Steve Perreira are a perfect example. "It was a Friday, and we thought it would be fun to have our picture taken," says Jesse. "I love to get my picture taken because I think pictures are cool," says Jeff.

▲ Senior Katie Bourdeau cowers in fear from the camera. "I'm not a picture person. I don't like taking pictures unless someone else is there with me, so I don't feel so on the spot. If I'm not expecting it, and someone just snaps a picture, my hand usually goes up. It's like a reflex," she explains.

► Guidance Director Mr. James Richards has been working at LHS in the guidance department for 24 years. His fondest memory of LHS is when he coached the 1991 girls' soccer team and won the Western Mass. title. Mr. Richards reminds students, "Through your hard work and confidence you can succeed in life."

▲ Biology teacher Mr. William Kolodziey has been teaching at LHS since 1964. There are things that Mr. Kolodziey won't miss. "Getting up at 5:30 every day and hours of work outside the 7 to 2 workday" are among those things. Above, Mr. Kolodziey works with freshmen Alexander Casimiro, Alex Jorge, and Vitaliy Belyshev.

► Mrs. Diane Mazzocco has been teaching English at LHS for 17 years. She began teaching in California, moved to teach in Illinois, then finally moved to teach in Massachusetts. Even in her retirement, she reminds students to "Do your homework every night! Whatever is asked of you, do it!" and reminds teachers to "Be strict and get your students' attention!"

Saying Goodbye

As we welcome new teachers to LHS, we sadly say goodbye to others. Miss Kathy Reilly, Mr. James Richards, Mrs. Diane Mazzocco, and Mr. William Kolodziey are those teachers who will not be with us next year. "You never will know what the day will bring," says Miss Reilly.

These teachers have been with LHS since the late sixties and seventies. They leave behind precious memories. "I will miss the warmth of most of the students. LHS is blessed with a large core of great students and teachers. I'll miss them," says Mr. Kolodziey.

Everyone at LHS wishes all the retirees great luck in the future along with great thanks for their efforts.

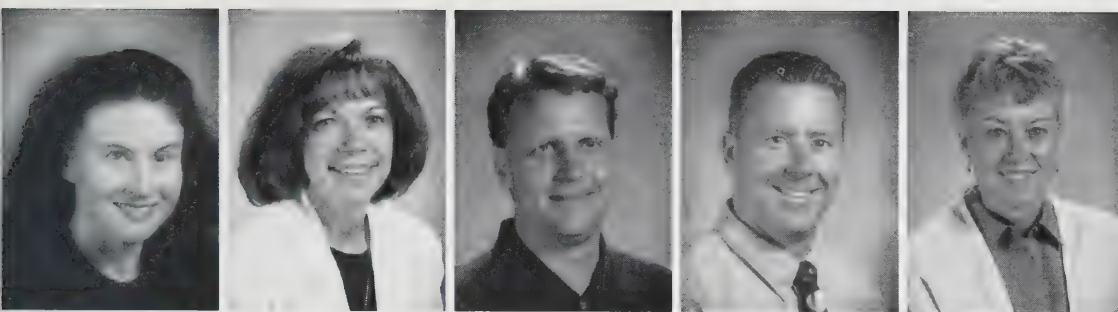

Getting Sentimental

These teachers will miss many things about their career as they head into retirement. "I will miss the interaction with the students," says Miss Reilly. However, there are some things they won't miss. When asked what she won't miss, Miss Reilly says, "The work! The correcting!" Miss Reilly comments that being a teacher is, "one of the most interesting jobs because I get to meet so many different people, adults and students. There aren't a lot of jobs like this."

Welcome Aboard!

Several teachers retired following the 2000-2001 school year. As a result, many new teachers were recruited. These include Mrs. Tracey Blair, Mrs. Theresa Brenton, Mr. Hollington Lee, Miss Jessica Czuprynski, Mr. Gary Elson, Mr. Brian Mulvehill, Mrs. Jennifer Picard, Mr. Richard Oliveira, Mrs. Lisa Lavigne, Mr. Brian Walsh, and Mr. Robert Johnston.

The interviews for the positions were conducted by Dr. James Cokkinias in collaboration with the chairman of the subject which the applicant would teach if employed. Criteria for employment included a bachelor's degree and passing the Massachusetts Teacher's Certification test in an applicant's respective subject.

◀ Mrs. Jennifer Picard walks through the halls of Ludlow High School. "I enjoyed my first year here. It was a wonderful experience working with the kids; I'm happy to be part of the staff," she says.

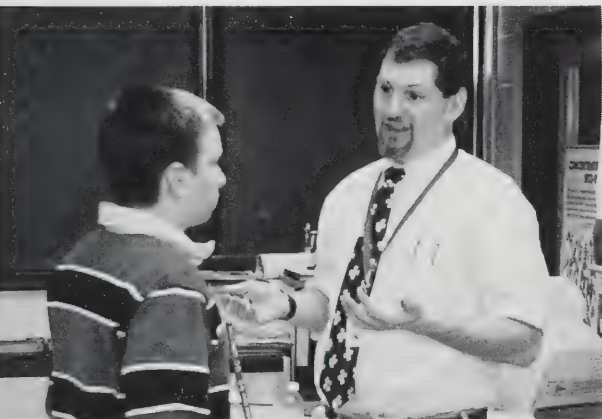

The Various Departments

The greatest number of new teachers came to the science department: Czuprynski, Lee, Walsh, and Johnston. The math department had two new members: Oliveira and Brenton. Other departments that had positions filled this year were business, special needs, health, social studies, and the fine arts.

◀ Mr. Brian Mulvehill talks to one of his students after class. Through his students, Mr. Mulvehill has gotten to know Ludlow High better. "My favorite part of student-teacher interactions is when the students analyze and think for themselves. I think when they've done that, we have accomplished a lot," says Mr. Mulvehill.

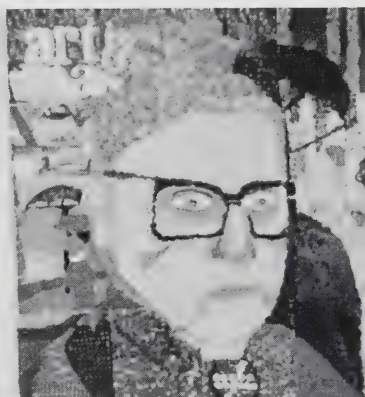

▲ Ms. Jessica Czuprynski is having fun teaching her students a lesson in chemistry. "This year has been an excellent learning experience! I was fortunate the students were hard-working and respectful. I learned a lot about being a teacher and what helps students be successful," she says.

ART 1 CERAMICS 2

► After Mr. Burns passed away, the E-block Art I class did a pointillism project in his memory. "The kids were down, and I felt they needed a project to bring them closer to Mr. Burns," explains Miss Lisa Lavigne. "Each student recieved a small square which they scaled up." The squares were put together, forming the completed work which appeared in the art exhibit.

▲ Mrs. Maureen Cotti sits with an enlarged photocopy of Mr. Bernard Burns's picture. The picture was taken from the faculty section of the 2000-2001 yearbook. Mrs. Cotti keeps it on the wall beside her desk. "I put it up after he passed away so that I could look to him for inspiration," she says.

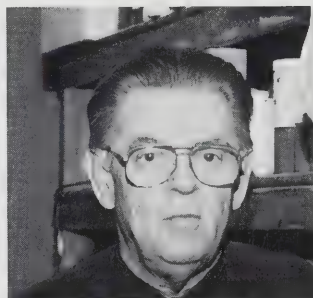

► Seniors Emily Geanacopoulos and Seth Falconer received the Art Award at graduation. The award was entitled "The Bernard Burns Art Award." Seth was surprised to win. "It feels good after all those years in the art program to finally be paid off with the prestigious award," says Seth. "If you had an idea, Mr. Burns told you to run with it," he continues. "He never said your ideas weren't important in the sense of artwork. He could always be positive and supportive of artwork."

In Memory of Mr. Bernard Burns

In the 1961-1962 school year, Mr. Bernard Burns began to teach art to elementary school students, but he switched to junior high the following year. Mrs. Maureen Cotti was his student as a sixth and seventh grader. In the '63-'64 school year, he became a member of the LHS faculty, where he remained until he passed away on February 16, 2002. Mrs. Cotti, who has taught fine arts at LHS for over 20 years, was able to work side by side with her former teacher. "We had a dynamic relationship. We worked collaboratively. We were always innovating new approaches to curriculum. And most times, he was my mentor. I followed his lead," says Mrs. Cotti.

A Unique Teacher

Students of Mr. Burns recall him as having been quite open towards them. "You got to know him on a personal level," says senior Emily Geanacopoulos. "You could talk to him really easily if you had a problem or something." Senior Melissa Flatley comments, "He tried to connect to everyone. That's what made him unique. It made everyone comfortable with him because he was like a friend."

On June 6 at Tony and Penny's, Kevin Alfaia, the collaborative program's only Ludlow resident, and four of his classmates celebrated completion. Mrs. Toni-Marie Mancuso awarded the students with certificates of completion and of appreciation for their service to the school in delivering supplies.

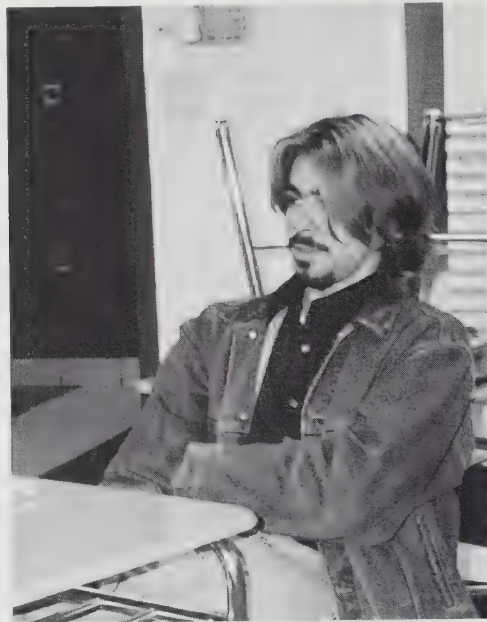

◀ One of collaborative's aides, Jennifer Herbert, sits by Stephen Ursino as he holds out his certificate of completion.

▲ Kevin Alfaia returns to his table after being awarded his certificates. Señor Paulo Zina commended the students for their completion and provided balloons for them. Students were also given complimentary T-shirts featuring their names and year of completion.

Organizations

RAISING OUR VOICES

► Senior Rob Kukla takes a seat during a debate team meeting. "I joined the debate team because the ski season had ended and I needed something less sporty and more intellectual to do. It was fun but it was very difficult. Arguing is easy if you have a topic that you feel strongly about, but if you don't know a lot about it, it's hard to make a point," says Rob.

The most active, vocal, and influential members of the student body are those that participate in organizations. These students play important roles in school functions and are often the ones who represent the school before the public. Organizations give the students at LHS an opportunity to get involved in their school community and a voice to express their ideas. Some clubs that serve as an important means of expression for LHS students are S.A.D.D., The Paw, and The Cub. Members of the newly created poster committee of S.A.D.D. raised voices by displaying posters in the main hallway that discouraged destructive decisions.

Groups such as student council are essential to the politics of our school. Student council members Jaclyn Vilaca, Kathryn Vomero, Jeff Ribeiro, and Jung Kang represented LHS students in the Ludlow broadcast of Our Town with Chip Harrington. "Student council does its best to be the voice of the school and raise issues that are important to our constituents," says Jeff.

Clubs are a great way in which the students can get involved. Whether it be by painting a mural, writing for a publication, or by representing the student body, the students have raised their voices through the organizations at LHS.

▲ In the cafeteria during lunch, seniors Rob Silva and Lindsey Palatino sell tickets for the National Honor Society raffle. "I think it's good that students are recognized for their work in the classroom when they become members of NHS. I hope that NHS continues to expand by doing more community service in the future," says Lindsey.

► Junior Katie Gomes concentrates on her music during the band's Thanksgiving Day game half-time show performance. "I like band because I like being able to interact with people from other grades. Band gives me an opportunity to perform. Also, I've been in band throughout high school, and that will look good on a college application," says Katie.

SCHOOL SPIRIT

Band, Jazz Band, Pep Band, and Color Guard

The band made great efforts to show its school spirit and represent LHS at many events. Marching in uniform, the band performed a halftime show at the Thanksgiving Day football game. The band also marched in the Holyoke St. Patrick's Day Parade as well as the Memorial Day Parade in town.

After years of hiatus, the Color Guard returned to perform alongside the band at both the football games and the parades. The girls dedicated many hours in order to perfect their performance.

To show their support for the football team, the pep band attended many away football and basketball games to lift the crowd's spirit. They also played with enthusiasm at the Western Mass. hockey finals.

At the band's Christmas and exchange concerts, the jazz band performed as well. The band also received a silver medal at this year's MICCA Festival. Both groups performed two exchange concerts with Littleton High School. Many fundraisers were needed in order to pay for the exchange concerts.

◀ Sophomore Amy Jo Hatch plays "Aztec Fire" during the band's half-time show performance. "We practiced a lot. Our hard work showed," says Amy.

▲ Senior Nate Cabana performs a solo in the jazz band's improvisation of "Heat Seeker." "Music is the most important thing in my life. It's what gets me up every morning," says Nate.

"Charlie Brown presented a challenge for both the musicians and the actors. The toughest part was creating an entertaining musical in which the music and the dialogue relied so much on each other. Despite the difficulties encountered, we all pulled it off quite well," says guitarist senior Mike Abdow.

THE SOUND OF MUSIC

Chorale, Show Choir, and Men's Choir

The choral program has had many wonderful performances this year. The choirs kept their traditions alive while adding a few new additions to their program.

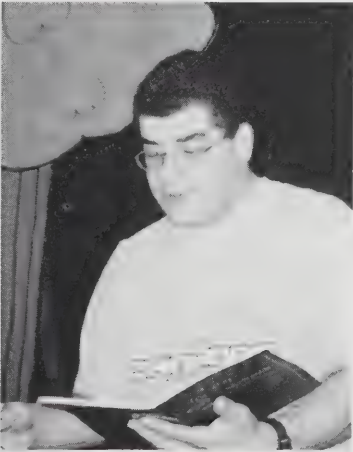

The first choir performance of the year was a madrigal dinner held at Tony and Penny's. Students dressed up in medieval clothing and sang many medieval songs while attendants ate their dinner. The year continued with a Christmas concert which incorporated traditional holiday carols such as "Silent Night" with a few modern songs.

A great amount of time and effort was put into this year's musical. Under the musical direction of Mrs. Mary-Beth Will and the stage direction of Mrs. Diana Roy, choral students performed You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown. Old as well as new faces took their places on stage while others helped backstage and in the music pit.

The year finished with the annual spring concert which played tribute to the September 11th tragedy. The members of the choirs joined together in "New York State of Mind."

▲ Junior Amelie Lonczak and sophomore Dan Borkowski prepare to sing a song. "Since acting is something that I plan on pursuing, it was a great opportunity to work with such a great cast and crew," says Amelie.

◀ Senior Scott Mahoney reads his lines for his role as Charlie Brown. "Practices were tough because it was a very basic plot, but it was a lot of fun," says Scott.

▼ As it does every year, student council participated in the Read Across America program on the date of Dr. Seuss's birthday. Freshmen Nicole Francisco and Erin Mislak read One Fish, Two Fish, Red Fish, Blue Fish to children at Chapin Street Elementary School. "I really liked reading to the younger kids. I got to talk to them and it was cool to see what they thought of high school students," says Nicole.

▼ Student council president, senior Jaclyn Vilaca, runs a student council meeting. "Being president of the student body has been both rewarding and challenging," says Jaclyn.

THE STUDENTS' VOICE

Student Council, Regional Student Advisory Council, and Student Advisory Board

Student government is made up of a dedicated core of students. Student council consists of class officers and five elected representatives from each class. Collectively they try to protect their constituents' rights and govern extracurricular groups in events such as field trips and fundraisers. This year, the club held two fundraisers: I-Flurtz and the Volleyball Marathon. Student Council also ran community service projects such as trick-or-treating for cans and Read Across America.

The Regional Student Advisory Council consists of two representatives who meet with other students from all over the region seven times a year to discuss important topics such as MCAS. The group is influential, having been granted voting power with the state Board of Education.

The Student Advisory Board is an elected group of students who sit in on the Ludlow School Committee meetings. They serve as the voice of the students of Ludlow High at these important meetings.

▲ Senior Jaclyn Vilaca opens a discussion to fellow student council members during a meeting. "I've learned a lot while being on student council. The upperclassmen taught me a lot about school politics and what it takes to run a class," says sophomore Marisa Yelle.

► Senior Karen Hammel works on a problem during a math meet. "Even though we never came in first, we still got donuts," says Karen.

CELEBRATION

French Club, Spanish Club, and Math Team

The French club and the Spanish club have been extremely busy this year, while the math team has done its best during competition.

During the Christmas season, the French club reached out to the community by singing French carols at the Senior Center. The club held a banquet entitled the "Mardi Gras Ball" at the Hu Ke Lau on February 8. Also, the club took two trips: one to New York City to see Les Miserables and the other to Quebec and Montreal, Canada.

In December, the Spanish club hosted "Mad Talent Yo!" which proved to be an enormous success. On March 15, the club held a trip to New York City in which students visited Ground Zero and viewed a play entitled La Casa Propina. The Spanish club also held a banquet at the Unity Club on May 10.

This year's math team fared well. Math meets in which students competed by solving math problems were held at various high schools. Mrs. Susan Stachelek was always sure to bring the team donuts and keep the team motivated.

▲ Sophomore Michelle Bradway and junior Kristin Demers pose as a French can-can dancer and Marie Antoinette (respectively) during the French club's National French Week celebration. "It was fun dressing up, and I think people had fun trying to speak French," says Kristin.

▼ Seniors Joe Shanley, Sebastian Priest, and Derek Salema show their Mardi Gras spirit during the French Club Banquet. "The beads and hats were a good idea. They were cool because they made it feel more like Mardi Gras," says Derek.

▼ Junior Michelle Aguilar enjoys her time in New York City to the fullest during a Spanish Club trip. "The play we watched was very interesting. We went shopping and to a Toys 'R Us with a Ferris wheel which was a lot of fun," says Michelle.

HELPING HAND

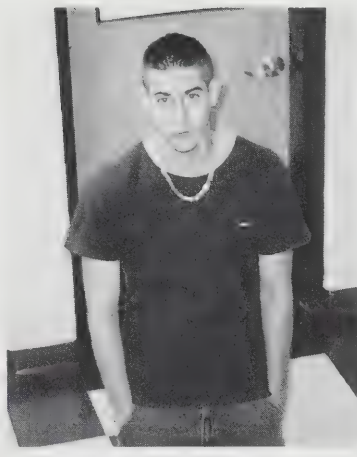

Students Against Destructive Decisions; Family, Community, and Career Leaders of America; Senior Patrol; and Lunch Patrol

Students Against Destructive Decisions (S.A.D.D.) is committed to helping students and the community. This year, the club raised money for a battered women's shelter and sponsored prom week activities with the help of advisors Mrs. Nancy Kavka and Ms. Mary Moriarty.

Family, Community, and Career Leaders of America (FCCLA), is dedicated to helping the community. This year, members donated time by baby-sitting children of parents who attended PTO meetings at Veterans Park Elementary School. The club, with assistance from Mrs. Carol Bardon made frog stuffed animals and pinatas for the children.

Senior patrol was reinstated this year to make maneuvering through the hallways between classes easier for students.

Under the guidance of Mr. Stephen Marino, the lunch patrol students stay in the hallways during lunch periods to stop students from roaming the building.

◀ Senior patrol member Jim Chenier stands at his post. "They still don't understand that they have to go around," says Jim.

▼ Lunch Patrol: Front: Jolie Glanville, Nicole Robleto, Derek Salema, Sherry Pio, Scott Lamondia, Jim Goodreau. Back: Lisa Phaneuf, Jessica Barbeau, Randy Placzek, Stephanie Perez.

▲ Juniors Susana Tavares and Lilianna Azevedo begin to make a stuffed frog at an FCCLA meeting. Azevedo says that she enjoys being in the FCCLA club. "I want to go into the field of early childhood, so it's been a good experience for me," she says.

KNOWLEDGE IS POWER

National Honor Society, As Schools Match Wits Team, and Debate Team

The National Honor Society began the year with writing Christmas Cards to children of the September 11th victims and running a canned food drive. Advisors Mrs. Mary-Beth Will and Mrs. Susan Phelon and the rest of the club welcomed new members at an induction banquet on February 1st at the Polish American Citizens Club. The year continued with fundraising and many volunteered at a WGBY telethon.

The As Schools Match Wits team, coached by Mr. John O'Connor, could be seen on Channel 22 competing against other local high schools. The team was featured twice and was one win away from entering the playoffs.

The debate team learned the proper methods of debate, then competed against other high schools from Western Mass. and Connecticut once a week for seven weeks. The team placed second in the two person debate. Advisor Mr. Brian Mulvehill was new to debate, yet was able to help the team win many debates.

READ ALL ABOUT IT

The Cub, The Paw, Yearbook, and the Mural Club

The Cub is Ludlow High School's monthly newspaper. The Cub staff and advisor Mrs. Suzanne Kelley can often be spotted during vacations and weekends putting finishing touches on the issue. The staff's hard work was evident at this year's Scholastic Press Forum at which six individual awards were received by the club's members.

Twice a year, The Paw staff produces a literary magazine filled with short stories, poems, and pictures written and drawn by the staff as well as other students. Under the guidance of advisor Mrs. Suzanne Kelley, the club was also honored this year for having the best literary magazine layout.

Another group that is often found at the school late into the evenings is the yearbook staff. The staff has worked diligently in the production of this year's yearbook with the help of advisor Mrs. Suzanne Kelley.

The mural club members have dedicated hours of work to this year's project. Under the supervision of Mrs. Maureen Cotti, the club painted a scene featuring lions that is currently displayed in the main office. A photo of the painting can be found on page one of this yearbook.

▼ Seniors Kristen Barone and Mark Bates are hard at work on a sports page layout for an upcoming issue of The Cub. "Over the four years, my work on The Cub has stressed and pressured me, but it has prepared me well for the next stages of my life. Not only do I walk away with applicable knowledge but endless memories as well," says Kristen.

OUTSTANDING CLUBS

Awards and Notable Achievements

Each club has its own unique way of standing apart from the rest. However, there are those clubs that have reached a level of achievement beyond that of a typical after school organization. It is evident that these clubs possess dedicated members as well as strong leadership. The clubs featured on this page have done an outstanding job this year in achieving their goals.

There are many awarding winning clubs at LHS. Both The Cub and The Paw took home awards at this year's AIC Scholastic Press Forum. The debate team placed second in the overall competition for a two person team and the band brought home the silver at this year's MICCA festival.

Other clubs have shown their achievements in different capacities. Students Against Destructive Decisions has done the most community service by far. Student Council's volleyball marathon is the most successful fundraiser this year while the Spanish Club has the most members.

▲ Best Fundraiser: Student Council's Volleyball Marathon. Seniors Michael Cardin, Eric Slora, and Student Council member Jill Bramucci take a break from volleyball at this year's top fundraiser. The student council put much dedication into the marathon. Junior Jenn DeSousa coordinated the event and was aided by most of the student council members who put many hours of work into the fundraiser. All their efforts paid off as the club raised over $4,000 during the event.

▲ Most Community Service: S.A.D.D. Seniors Scott Mahoney and Kristine Miele show off the T-shirts worn by S.A.D.D. members at D.A.R.E. graduation. S.A.D.D. members also served as peer mentors, ran a supply drive for a local battered women's shelter and adopted a family for Christmas.

▼ Award Winning: Debate Team. Seniors Chris Yu and Dennis Gove placed second in the overall competition for a two person team. "We were happy that we won for the work that we've put in during the past four years," says Chris.

▼ Award Winning: Band. The band was awarded a silver medal at this year's MICCA festival in Lexington. "We were proud to receive the silver since the district we played in was the most difficult and the highest obtained by any band was the silver," says senior Liz Hangasky.

▲ Largest club/organization: Spanish Club. Front: Kristine Miele, Jaclyn Vilaca. Middle: Derek Salema, Nicole Santos, Michelle Liaszenik, Kerri Line. Back: Karen Miele, Aditi Kulkarni, Todd Prokop. The Spanish Club holds a meeting in Sr. Paulo Zina's room. With over 60 members, the Spanish club has the largest membership among all the after school clubs and organizations at Ludlow High. For this reason, Sr. Paulo Zina's room is always filled to capacity when the club holds a meeting. "Meetings were so crowded that people had to stand. People had to sit on desks or share chairs during the meetings, but they still came. Spanish club had a good year because we had a lot of members, we made money at Mad Talent Yo, and we went on trips," says freshman Michelle Liaszenik.

Athletics

ON THE BALL

► The wrestling team continued its rich winning tradition this season when it captured its fourth consecutive Western Mass. victory. Two members of the team, Art Privedenyuk and John DaCruz, also placed at the state level. Although a technicality forced the team to forfeit its league title, the team was allowed to keep the Western Mass. and state titles.

▲ The new athletic complex contained a track, football field, soccer field, and baseball diamond. Teams now have a field on school grounds for practice and home games. "It affords students the opportunity to take ownership of a new facility that they can reflect upon once they leave the high school," said Athletic Director Nancy Kurty.

As the school day comes to a close, students enter the locker rooms to grab their equipment and rush out to the field to begin practice for their sport. However, practice and games that used to be held at other locations can now be held on the new field located behind the school.

With the completion of the new athletic stadium, the football team, track teams, and soccer teams received a place on school grounds to hold their competitions, and the teams that got to play on the new field rose to incredible victories throughout the season. The football team dominated the Thanksgiving Day game against Palmer with a final score of 53-0. The track teams also had incredible matches and made a great attempt at Western Mass. The soccer team enjoyed their first season on the new field with both teams making it to the Western Mass. tournaments this season.

This athletic season also gave rise to unforgettable seasons for teams that did not use the new fields. The wrestling team claimed its fourth consecutive Western Mass. victory and placed second in the state and the hockey team succeeded in making it to the Western Mass. finals where the game was decided in the final minute of play. The cheerleading team was also on the rise this year. The cheerleaders competed at the state championships for the first time in Ludlow High School history.

Ludlow High School athletics were on the ball and on the rise this year, and created many unforgettable memories and friendships that live on after the season has passed. For those students that participated in athletics this season, this was truly a season that will never be forgotten.

► When it comes to being on the rise, the Ludlow High cheerleading squad went above and beyond what it had accomplished in previous years. The team went to the state championships for the first time in school history, and although it did not place, getting to that level was quite an accomplishment.

A black and white photograph of three cheerleaders in 'LIONS' uniforms. They are wearing white long-sleeved shirts with 'LIONS' printed on the front, dark shorts with white stripes, and white bows in their hair. They are all cheering with their mouths open and arms raised. The background is a light-colored tent or canopy.

► Junior Meghan Robillard jumps up to get the ball as it is about to go into the net. Meghan has been an important member of the team since her freshman year when she began playing for Ludlow High School.

▼ Members of the team rush down the field together to show their unity. Team work was very important to the varsity team this season. Many of the girls have played together for a long time and have gotten to know each other well during their years of Ludlow soccer experience.

▲ Lauren Pereira works hard to maintain control over the ball as her opponent tries to take the ball away from her. Lauren has been a key competitor on this year's team. She qualified to be an All-State and All-New England selection.

▲ Freshman Angie Wozniak rushes to gain possession of the ball for Ludlow just as her opponent is catching up to her.

ON THE TOP

Girls' soccer semi-finalists

The girls' soccer team had an excellent season but fell short against Agawam by a score of 3-1 in their quest for a Western Mass championship title. The girls finished as Western Mass semi-finalists. Junior Lauren Pereira had a goal in each of the team's tournament games.

The team finished its regular season 11-10. Junior Natalie Gebo and Lauren were selected to the All-State, and Lauren qualified for the All-New England team.

The girls also defeated rival Cathedral twice during the season. The Lady Lions won the first game by a score of 1-0, and they also defeated Cathedral 3-2 later on in the season.

The soccer team had an incredible season and came out strong in the end. The strong efforts of this team show that Ludlow soccer is once again on the rise.

ENDING STRONG

Boys' soccer excels

The boys' soccer team had an excellent season despite a rough start. After a loss to Cathedral on September 12, the boys would finish the season strong. After this date, the boys would not be defeated in a single game.

This year's team came out strong in the end defeating Cathedral 1-0 in their second meeting and Agawam 3-1.

The Western Mass. quarter finals would end the team's quest for its third consecutive state title. The 2-1 loss against Chicopee would end in shoot outs in double overtime ending another remarkable year of boys' soccer. Despite the loss, no one can say that this team did not play its hardest.

Senior Sebastian Priest was an All-State Selection, and Seth Falconer was selected to the All Western Mass. first team.

"We had talent to do well in Western Mass. and win it. We had a rough time putting away teams that we could have beaten." -- junior John DaCruz.

▼ Junior stopper Corey Mange looks down the field for his teammates as he prepares to gain a better field position for Ludlow. Mange has played soccer at Ludlow High since his freshman year.

▲ Junior Josh Naginewicz tries to gain control of the ball for Ludlow while two Chicopee players attempt to keep possession.

◀ Senior Sebastian Priest makes a quick turn in an effort to keep Ludlow in control of the ball. Priest was an important contributor to this year's team. His hard work and dedication made him the perfect candidate for an All-State Selection.

▼ Running back, senior Jay Abair, has a strong grip on the ball as he rushes it up the field. Jay was an important offensive player. He was selected to the All Western Mass. team for his efforts during the season.

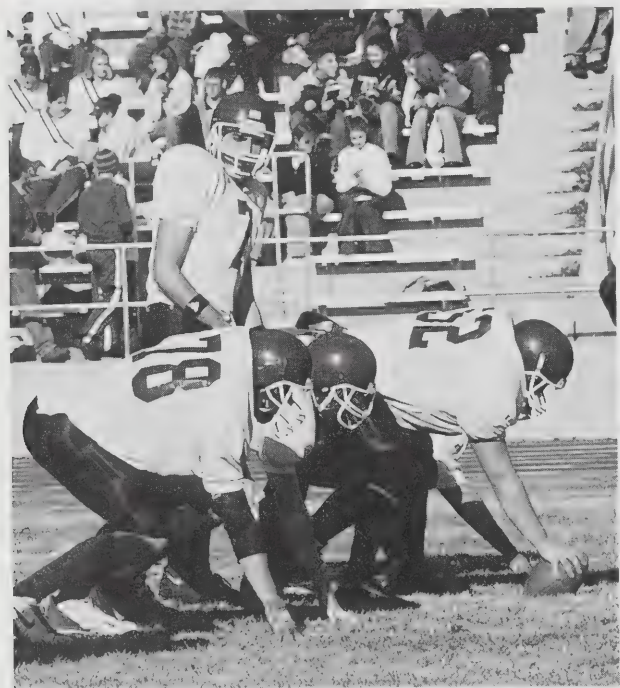

▼ Seniors Art Privedenyuk, Pete Leonczyk, Jay Abair, and Pat Karalekas lead the team out onto the field for the Thanksgiving Day game against Palmer.

FIELD OPENED WITH WIN

Football wins first game on field

On September 21, the football team defeated the Mohawk Warriors 27-0 at home. For the first time in 54 years, the Lions' home field was located on the Ludlow High School grounds.

The Thanksgiving Day game also proved favorable for the Lions. The team defeated Palmer 53-0. Ludlow now leads the Thanksgiving Day series in wins.

Seniors Jay Abair and Mark Byrne were selected to the All Western Mass. first team, and seniors Mike Hastings and Joe Coddington were selected to the second team.

The new athletic complex combined with a 5-5 season helped Ludlow rise to an unforgettable season.

▲ Junior Seth Reich plows through the Palmer offensive line to take down his opponent. The Lions' defense worked extremely hard to keep its opponents away from the end zone.

"We were able to produce three times the offense that was produced in the last twenty years at Ludlow High School."-- senior Nick Vantangoli

"We had some ups and downs, but we came together as a team and ended up having a successful season that was a lot of fun." -- senior Jen Messier

AT THE FINALS

Girls' volleyball second

The girls' volleyball team had another great season this year. The team had a seasonal record of 11-7-0, and an overall record of 13-8-0.

The team qualified for Western Mass where they made it to the final round, but they were eliminated by Minnechaug with a score of 0-3. The Lady Lions had a strong showing in the quarter final match where they eliminated Longmeadow 3-0.

The season opened strong for the Lady Lions. In their first two games, they defeated both Ware and Holyoke 2-0. The team also defeated Longmeadow 2-0 once during the season before defeating it again during the championship playoffs.

The team competed strongly throughout the entire season. Individual honors were given to senior Jodi Nascimento, who was an All Western Mass. selection.

▲ Team work was an important part of this year's volleyball team. Here, the team gathers around Coach Fred Glanville to show their unity. Glanville has coached the girls' volleyball team for many years, and his daughter, senior Jolie Glanville, was a member of this year's team.

◀ Senior Jenn Messier bumps the ball to prevent it from hitting the ground. Jenn has played volleyball throughout her career at Ludlow High School. She was an important member of this year's team.

▲ All Western Massachusetts selection Jodi Nascimento, a senior, attempts to spike the ball over the net at her opponent.

▲ Senior Kristen Martin watches the ball as it comes over the net and is prepared to bump the ball. This year's team was comprised of members who knew how to play well together, and this led them to the finals.

► Senior Ben Lovell looks down at his ball before preparing to take his shot. Ben had an extraordinary season and managed to place eleventh in the state championships. He was also selected to the Western Mass. first team. It was because of strong players such as Ben that this year's team was extremely successful.

▼ Senior Brent Allen kneels down to get a better look at the shot he will attempt next. Brent was awarded the first ever Ludlow High School Golf Leadership Award.

▲ Junior Eric Scheer has his head down and his eye on the ball as he brings his club back to take a swing. When asked what he likes best about the sport, Eric stated, "It's one on one with another player. It's your skills."

"We started off strong and got better from there. It's too bad we couldn't pull it together at the Western Mass. championship." -- Senior Ben Lovell

▼ At Westover Golf Course, junior Mike Saloio lines up his shot prior to swinging his club. Mike was an important member of this year's golf team, and for being such a strong player, he was selected to this year's Western Mass. second team.

Golf second in league

The golf team had an extraordinary season. It completed the season with a record of 15-4-1 and finished second in its league.

The team had strong showings against Agawam when it defeated the Brownies by a score of 13.5-4.5 on September 19. The team also managed to play a great game against Central whom it defeated 18-0.

At Western Mass. the team came in fourth place, and senior Ben Lovell received the opportunity to go to the state championship where he finished tied for 11th place.

Individual honors went to senior Ben Lovell and sophomore Neil Daigneault who were selected to the Western Mass. first team and to juniors Mike Saloio and Jay Zina who were selected to the Western Mass. second team.

▼ Boys Front: Jesse Regnier, Nick Gagne, Vitaliy Belyshev. Back: Dan Muse, Joe Goncalves, Derek Vigneault, Coach David Larrivee.

▲ Before meets, the entire team would usually take a walk through the cross country trail to get to know the course it would be running. The courses were usually 3.1 miles long, and the top five runners would determine Ludlow's score. Here, Derek Vigneault, Ashley Parent, Dan Muse, and Michelle Bradway stop inside Ludlow High's cross country trail and recall the different trails they ran throughout the season.

IN STRIDE

Cross country stays upbeat

The boys' and girls' cross country teams ended a tough season, but both teams can say that they enjoyed the sport.

The boys finished the season 2-11, while the girls finished a little better with a final score of 4-9. Both teams tried hard throughout the entire season, and individual members made improvements that will be useful during the future years of running cross country.

Sophomore Michelle Bradway had an outstanding season. She improved from finishing fifth to finishing first for the team. At Pioneer Valley, she finished 81st, but she was the first runner from Ludlow to finish the race.

For the boys, freshman Jesse Regnier led the team. It was Jesse's first year on the team, and he brought with him a dedication from which many team members could learn.

"It was an all around good season. Everyone had fun because everyone's really close on the team," -- junior Rosaleen Lewis.

▼ Juniors Rosaleen Lewis and Lisa Rua take a practice run in the off season behind the high school.

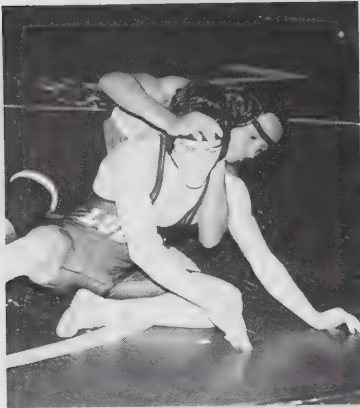

▼ Sophomore Jenn Priore and freshman Ashley Parent know that stretching is important before meets and practices. Ashley, who completed her first season, and Jenn, who finished her second season, stretch before an off season run.

▲ Sophomore Michelle Bradway works hard to finish the race. The race ends on the track after emerging from the woods. She likes the end of the race the best because of the "intensity" of it.

◀ Sophomores Derek Vigneault and Dan Muse know that practice in the off season is also important. Dan said that winning the races was the best part of the season. "We always felt like the underdog because we were. When we won a race, it was always double the sense of accomplishment," says Dan.

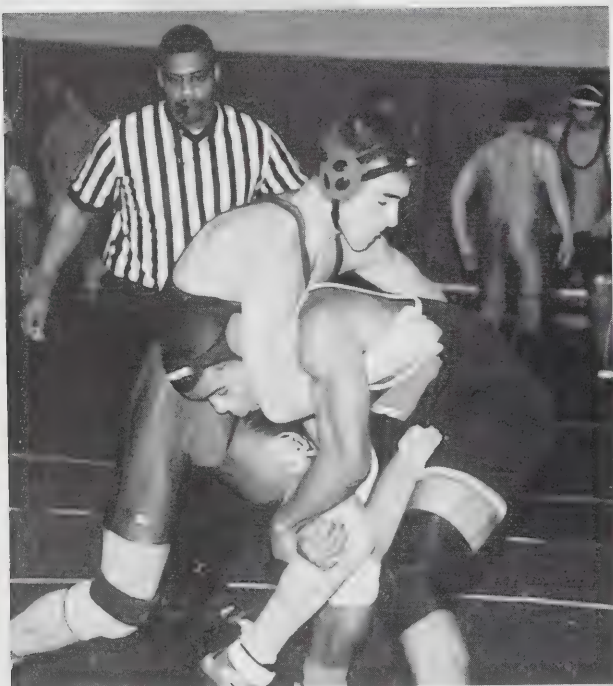

▼ Junior Adam Provost battles with his opponent for control of the match. Adam placed fourth in New England in the 125 weight class, and he also placed fifth during the all-state tournament. Adam also placed second during the state championships.

▼ Junior All Western Mass. second team selection John Pereira, wrestling in the 275 weight class, controls his match against his opponent.

▲ Junior John DaCruz struggles to keep on his feet as his opponent attempts a take down. John had an outstanding season and was without a doubt one of the best wrestlers on the team. John recorded 30 pins, the most in a season for Ludlow.

► Senior Mark Medina uses a half nelson to keep his opponent on the mats. Mark has wrestled for Ludlow since his freshman year. This year, he, along with James Ceberek, Pat Karalekas, and Art Privedenyuk, was a captain of the team.

▼ Senior Art Privedenyuk holds the record for most pins in a career, 84, most consecutive wins, 33, and he also recorded 115 wins during his wrestling career. Art was one of the four captains on this year's team, and his brother, Dmitry, was a part of this year's wrestling coaching staff.

▼ Coach Jeff Peterson talks with junior Adam Abair on the sidelines. During the matches, Peterson would often use time in between the matches to help his wrestlers and give them advice on how to handle their opponents. Peterson's dedication and skills were part of this team's success.

PINNING TEAMS

Wrestling claims fourth consecutive Western Mass. championship title

Wrestling has always had a strong winning tradition at Ludlow High School, and this season did not prove to be any different.

Ludlow placed first in the Elite 8 Competition and the Northeast Christmas Classic leading up to the Western Mass. and state championships. It was no surprise that Ludlow would walk away with the Western Mass. title. In states, the team would finish second, but John DaCruz and Art Privedenyuk would take home the state championship title for their individual weight class.

John and Adam Provost both placed fourth in New England for their weight classes, while John was named an all-state champion. John received this year's highest honor among all Western Mass. wrestlers, the Western Mass. Wrestler of the Year Award.

"We had a good season, and a state championship would have been nice, but that's unfinished business for next year." -- Senior Art Privedenyuk

"This team battled hard all year, overcame adversity, and was a pleasure to play on. I wouldn't trade them in for anything." -- senior Mark Bates

Hockey makes it to finals

From the first time the hockey team stepped onto the ice this season, everyone knew that this year's hockey team was not going to settle for anything less than a chance at the Western Mass. title. But at the time, the team didn't know it would actually be in the finals and how close the game would be against the Westfield Bombers. With 36 seconds remaining in the game, Westfield defeated Ludlow 3-2 and claimed the title at the Springfield Civic Center. Both teams battled hard, but in the end, Ludlow was forced to settle for second.

With such a strong team, many Ludlow players achieved individual honors. This year's highest honor went to senior forward Mark Bates. Mark received this year's Amo Bessone Award for the best player in Western Mass. Mark and senior defenseman Jim Goodreau were selected to the All Western Mass. first team, while forwards Mike Amaral (junior), Ryan Malone (senior), and Tyler Severyn (sophomore) were selected to the All Western Mass. second team.

▲ Senior Peter Milillo takes the face off during the Western Mass. final game played on March 10. Pete finished the season with 10 goals and 8 assists in the 23 games he played for Ludlow this season.

◀ Senior Mark Bates races along the boards to keep the puck away from his Westfield opponent. Mark was among the top players in the league this year, placing second in the Berry Division in scoring with 47 points. He had 24 goals and 23 assists.

▼ Junior Adam Glista prepares to stop a shot in the Western Mass. finals held at the Springfield Civic Center. Adam finished the season 7-3-2 and had a 2.41 goals against average at the conclusion of the season. During the entire season, he only allowed 29 shots past him.

▲ Senior defenseman Jim Goodreau looks to keep the puck in the Westfield zone for Ludlow. Jim, a four year hockey player, was a key member of this year's defensive line. He was awarded with the Ludlow High School Best Defenseman award at the hockey banquet.

► Freshman Erin Mislak races down the slopes during a meet. In her first year of skiing for Ludlow, Erin managed to place sixth individually the league. Because there were only three female competitors on this year's team, the girls' team could not place as a team at Western Mass since a minimum of four members are required to race as a team.

▲ Sophomore Adam Madera awaits his turn on the slopes. "It was fun. You got to ski for free and it was just a good activity. It gave us an opportunity to hang out with friends and make new ones and just have a good time," commented Adam.

▲ Senior Mike Diotalevi and junior Jolie Condon talk on the ski lift on their way up to the top of the slopes to start their run at Berkshire East.

ON THE SLOPE

Ski team finishes fourth

▼ Junior Todd Prokop races down the slopes during one of his meets. Todd has skied for seven years and since his freshman year at Ludlow. During this time, he has enjoyed the sport a lot, and he feels that the freedom to participate in a sport because he enjoys it is the greatest part about skiing. He does not feel pressured into winning. "The ski team is fun because we can go out there and just participate in skiing for fun. We don't have to worry about winning," he commented.

This year's boys' ski team had a moderate season compared to previous years. The team finished its season with 21 points after finishing with 26 the previous year. Division competition came from Holyoke Catholic, West Springfield, Belchertown, Chicopee Comp., and St. Mary's. The boys finished fourth in the C division based on points.

Senior Mike Diotalevi was a strong competitor for this year's boys' ski team. He had many impressive matches for Ludlow, including one on February 5 against St. Mary's. He finished his race with a time of 33.85 seconds.

The girls' ski team lacked participation this season, but senior Lauren Mislak, freshman Erin Mislak, and junior Jolie Condon did an excellent job individually on the slopes for Ludlow, and Lauren and Erin were able to place within their division.

The ski team competed throughout the season at Berkshire East, but the warm winter weather did not provide the team with much snow.

THREE POINTER

Girls' basketball goes 3-16

Despite the girls' basketball team's seemingly unfavorable record, the amount of time and dedication the girls put into the sport was incredible.

The girls opened the season on a positive note on December 12 when they defeated West Springfield High School by a score of 27-25. They would finish the season in much the same way they began when on February 21 they defeated the High School of Science and Technology by a score of 57-54.

The rest of the season had some ups and downs for the team, but on February 4, the girls managed to defeat St. Mary's High School, making their record for the year 3-16.

Even despite the losing record, the entire team put a lot of effort into the season and had a great time on the court.

"The team worked very hard, and even though the scoreboard didn't show it, we had a successful year." -- senior Pam Wright

▼ Senior Pam Wright watches as her ball sails toward the basket. Pam is very athletic and also participates in volleyball and softball.

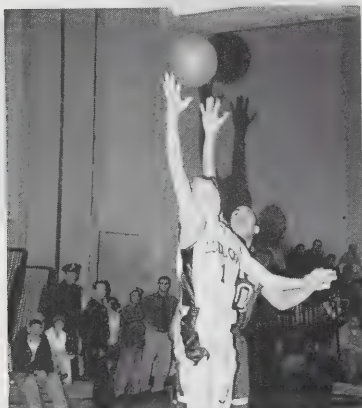

▼ Freshman Megan Williamson was a huge contributor to this year's basketball team. Making the varsity team as a freshman was a huge accomplishment for Megan. Her talent and spirit helped the team keep a positive attitude.

▲ Senior Jolie Glanville looks for an open team-mate as she attempts to pass the ball while her opponent blocks her. Jolie has played basketball during each of her four years at LHS. She was an excellent example for underclassmen, and she also participates in volleyball.

◀ Junior Beth Cochenour dribbles around her Agawam opponent in an attempt to maintain control of the ball. Despite Ludlow's 62-33 loss to Agawam, the entire team worked hard to improve and gave its best effort on and off the court.

▼ Coach Wayne Donaldson, senior captain Brent Allen, and junior David Cardona join in a display of team unity which was important during the season.

RISING SPIRIT

Boys' basketball enjoys sport

The boys' basketball team record can simply not show the amount of spirit displayed by this team throughout the season. The boys battled hard, and despite a few close games including a 45-48 loss to Palmer on December 10, the boys could not find a way to pull off a win this season.

Despite the record, the team never gave up, and it continued to practice daily and improve its skills. By the end of the season, no one could say that the boys did not give it their all, and the boys continued to improve with each game played and with each practice.

But more importantly than the record, the boys had fun on and off the court and built lasting friendships and shared many great memories together, and this is something that no record could ever show.

"The effort and passion was there, but there was an element missing. I see success for the underclassmen in the future." -- senior Brent Allen.

"We had a lot of talent on our team this year, but after losing 8 seniors, we had a lot of inexperienced players." --senior Matt Levesque

SPIKING TEAMS

Boys' volleyball strong

The boys' volleyball team had a strong season this year under the coaching of Fred Glanville with a record of 14-8 including the playoffs.

The team made it to the Western Mass. quarter-finals where it came up against a tough Pioneer team. The Lions lost 0-3 to Pioneer despite defeating it earlier in the season 2-0.

Ludlow started the season on the right note when it defeated Westfield 2-1. Ludlow would continue this tradition with Westfield when it also won in the other two matches against the same team.

The season also ended on a high note. The team defeated the High School of Commerce 2-0, and during pre-qualifications for Western Mass., the team defeated Westfield for the final time.

◀ Senior Matt Levesque was a key member of this year's team. In the quarter-final match against Pioneer, Matt recorded 5 kills, 5 blocks, and 5 digs. Matt has played volleyball throughout his career at Ludlow High.

BUILDING UP

Cheerleading makes states

When it comes to rising above past years and making a huge difference in the sport, the LHS cheerleading team knows exactly what it takes to improve.

This year's squad made it to the state championships for the first time ever after gaining strong leadership from its new coaches Laura Przybylowicz and Heather Wishart.

The team also came in third at the Pioneer Valley Leagues competition and the Western Massachusetts regionals.

Not only was this year's squad highly competitive, but they were also involved with many activities throughout the year. The girls could be found cheering at sporting events during the fall and winter athletic seasons, but also equally important was the amount of time they spent helping out in their community. This year's squad cheered in the Shriner's Chowder Bowl with the proceeds going to the hospital, and the girls also volunteered at Brightside.

▲ JV Front: Tiffany Goncalves, Isabel Barroso, Marisa Yelle, Shannon Curtin, Stacy Dalby, Jacinda Alves. Back: Amanda Crespo, Tatianna Dagenais, Felicia Goncalves, Elizabeth Crafts, Aimee DaSilva, Tiffany Morton.

▼ Senior Jenn Messier steps up to the plate and hopes to get a hit for Ludlow. Jenn has been involved with athletics throughout her time at LHS, but she is also a well rounded student whose high grades earned her the position of salutatorian of her senior class.

STRIKING OUT

Softball aims to improve

Despite going 2-18 this season, the softball players still came out to play every game and enjoyed participating in their sport.

The team won its first game 12-9 on March 15 at Chicopee. The following day, the girls defeated Central 7-0, and unfortunately, that would end their winning for the season.

The four senior captains, Pam Wright, Jenn Messier, Denise Bradway, and Heather DeWolf, led the team this season and tried to keep the players confident despite the record on the scoreboard.

Throughout the season, the team enjoyed being together and worked hard to improve its skills.

▼ Senior Denise Bradway steps up to bat for Ludlow. Denise played softball for many years before playing for Ludlow. Denise is such a skilled player that she made the JV team during her freshman year, and varsity her sophomore year.

◀ With her foot on the base and the ball almost to her glove, senior captain Heather DeWolf prepares to get her opponent out as she approaches the base. DeWolf has played softball for Ludlow since her freshman year, and before that, she played for the St. Mary's softball team for two years.

▼ Short stop Sean Zdanis was the only sophomore to make the varsity team this season, which was quite an accomplishment for an underclassman. Sean has contributed his skill to the game and came up with some big double plays for the Lions.

▼ With the ball in his glove, junior second baseman Matt Chaplin attempts to get to the base before his Agawam opponent.

AT THE PLATE

Baseball quarter-finalists

This year's baseball team played well together and had an excellent season. Junior Ben Taylor led the team in pitching, and he pitched during the team's loss in its quest for a Western Mass. title.

The quarter-final match ended the season for the Lions when they were defeated by Longmeadow 5-0. The team played extremely well during that game allowing Longmeadow to score only in the first and third innings.

Earlier in the season, Ludlow lost to Longmeadow 1-18, so a 5-0 loss was quite an improvement. The Lions had many successful games this year, including the season opener when they defeated Palmer 2-1. The end of the season also proved to be excellent when the team defeated Chicopee twice with scores of 9-5 and 4-3 and Northampton 3-2 within a span of three days.

"We played as a team. No one tried to stand out above the others. All of us sacrificed when we had to in order to help the team." -- senior Dennis Gove

"Our team was very successful this year. We had a good time which helped us work together to have a winning season." -- sophomore Caitlin McInerny.

ACING TEAMS

Girls' tennis successful

The girls' tennis team had one of the most successful years in LHS history this season and enjoyed playing on the newly built courts located in the front of the school. The team went 16-4 including the post season. The 16 wins was quite an accomplishment for a team during a rebuilding year.

The team made it to the tournament where it defeated Agawam 3-2 in the quarter final round. The team also beat Agawam 3-2 on April 17.

In the semi-final round, the team came up against a hard Longmeadow team that defeated them 5-0. Longmeadow had already defeated Ludlow earlier in the season by the same score.

The team had many strong matches this season, and from May 6 until May 30, the team did not lose a match.

With a season like this, the Ludlow tennis program continues to be on the rise.

▲ Freshman Sarah Pfefferkorn watches as her back hand sails over the net. Sarah played third singles during her first year on the team.

◀ Junior Karisa Livingston hits a forehand in hopes of returning the ball back over the net. Karisa played first singles this year for Ludlow. Without any seniors for the underclassmen to look up to, Karisa became the perfect example for them to follow. She has played tennis throughout her three years at Ludlow.

▼ Sophomore Caitlin McInerney waits for the ball to bounce on her side so she can return the play. Caitlin played doubles this season. Her partner was junior Julieta Cordeiro.

▲ Freshman Jocelyn Pereira is about to hit a forehand. Although mainly a singles player, she occasionally played doubles this season.

▲ Junior Lisa Swist begins warming up for her match. She competed in second singles this season. "We did really well considering that we had a lot of new players this year, and we can only get better for next year," said Lisa.

► Sophomore singles player Pete Afonso enjoys his first season on the team despite the initial feeling of having to adjust to the rules of the game. He liked how his coach made his first season enjoyable for him. "My coach made it fun for us. He wasn't mean, didn't push us too hard, and was easy going," says Pete.

STRONG START

Boys' tennis finishes 3-15

The boys' tennis team started off strong defeating Westfield and Chicopee on April 2 and April 4 by a score of 4-1 in both matches.

Unfortunately, the rest of the season would not fare as well for the team who only won one more match on May 22 against East Longmeadow. The final score of the game was 3-2.

Nevertheless, the team continued to improve, and by the end of the season, the team was a lot stronger than it was at the start of the season despite a record that states otherwise.

The entire team enjoyed its season, and this gave rise to many unforgettable memories for the team that will live on long after the tennis season ends.

▲ Junior Manny Moutinho has just hit the ball and watches his shot as it bounces on the other side of the net.

▼ Sophomore Jennifer Priore has just let go of her javelin and awaits the results of her throw. Jennifer occasionally throws the discus for the team. Although she sometimes runs, her main activity is the javelin.

▼ Freshman Leah Letourneau prepares to get herself over the bar in the high jump. Leah also competed in the half mile. Despite this being her first year, she had the fourth fastest time by the end of the season.

JUMPING HIGH

Girls' track team breaks records

The track team ended a successful season and broke two school records this season. Senior Kristine Goncalves broke the record in the 300-meter hurdles with a time of 49.7 seconds. The 4X400 team made up of Kristine, senior Lauren Mislak, sophomore Michelle Bradway, and freshman Rachel Fonseca also broke the school record with a time of 3.21.2.

At the Western Mass. championship, Michelle placed sixth in the high jump with a height of 4'6". The record breaking 4X400 team also placed fifth place to earn the team extra points. Kristine came in seventh in the 300-meter hurdles with a time of 50.1 seconds.

Senior leadership was also a key point to the success of this year's team. The four captains, Heidi Mariani, Christina Chaconas, Kristine, and Lauren led the team to a great season.

"We had a good season even though we didn't win all our meets. Our team was close, and we bonded a lot." -- senior Christina Chaconas ▼ Junior Celia Demers gives a big thumbs up as she sprints down the track. Celia enjoys running and is also a member of the cross country team.

▼ Senior Heidi Mariani prepares to land after her jump. She was a great role model and example for the underclassmen. Heidi was a sprinter and a triple jumper for the team. She was one of the team's hardest working members this season.

▲ Senior Lauren Mislak extends herself to get the best jump possible. Lauren came in twelfth in the triple jump at Western Mass. with 31'.

◀ Senior Christina Chaconas attempts to get ahead of her Minnechaug opponent. She competed extremely well for the team this season. She recorded the most points for the team throughout the season, and she also qualified for Western Mass. At Western Mass., Christina placed eighth in the 200-meter with a time of 28.2 seconds. Christina was also a strong competitor in the triple jump.

▼ Senior captain Mark Byrne prepares to throw the javelin. Mark placed second in Western Mass. in the shot put where he also reached his personal best with a distance of 48' 8½".

▲ Junior Seth Reich, ahead of some other of his team members, comes around the track in his meet against Holyoke Catholic. This was Seth's first year as a member of the track team, and he is a distance runner. According to Coach Becca Gauvin, Seth has one of the greatest work ethics on the team.

► Senior Jim Ceberek gets into starting position for his race against Holyoke Catholic. Jim was also a captain of this year's team and a member of the 4X100 team that broke the school record. Jim qualified for Western Mass. in the 200-meter.

▼ Senior Jay Abair, preparing to throw the javelin, was mainly a sprinter for this year's team. This was his first year on the team since he was injured last season and served as a manager. Jay is one of the fastest students to compete for the team in a long time.

▼ Junior Dan Poitras prepares to clear the hurdles during his match. Dan also participated in the pole vault for the team. He qualified to participate in the post season matches, but due to an injury, he was unable to compete beyond the regular season.

KEEPING PACE

Boys' track second in league

The boys' track team went 5-4 this season and 5-1 in the league to earn second place in its league for the first time.

The 4X100 team broke the 1986 school record with a time of 45.7 seconds.

Mark Byrne was the lone team member who went to the state championship for the shot put. He came in 14th.

Jason Abair also had an impressive showing at Western Mass. where he came in fourth in the 200-meter, but he missed qualifying for states since only the first and second place winners are allowed to qualify.

This year's team also had strong senior leadership with 18 seniors participating in the sport.

"We had a really great year coming off last year's disappointing season. It was just a real breakthrough for us this year." -- senior Brock Gaspar.

Events

RISE TO THE OCCASION

► Senior Jessica Babinski performs in "Annie," the girls' production of the senior show. It was the last act in the first half of the show. "My favorite part of the production was all the senior girls getting together," says Jessica. Of senior events, she says, "All of our events are the beginning of the end because everything after senior show just winds down."

▲ A representative of Wing Memorial Hospital presents senior James Ceberek with a $1,000 scholarship during Class Night. "I was surprised. I didn't know I was getting it," he says. The award is given to a student seeking a career in the health sciences. James intends to be a nurse anaesthetist. He received two more awards that evening: an athletic award from the Marine Corps. and a full ROTC scholarship from the army. Of senior week, he says, "The week went by fast. It was the best part of the whole year."

Events are an opportunity for students to do something a little out of the ordinary. Perhaps they get a chance to wear sparkly dresses and snazzy tuxes. Or maybe they have a moment in the spotlight to showcase their talents in a performance. Or they may assume a new dignity in ceremonies. Whatever the event may be, students who participate invariably rise to the occasion.

Semiformal and formal events take place throughout the school year. The Homecoming semiformal kicks off the dance season. Each class holds a banquet. Prom is the pinnacle of these events, being the most formal and the only event for which students can leave school early to prepare.

There's nothing like a performance to showcase the talent of students. Such performances that took place this year included the traditional senior show, as well as the school play, You're a Good Man Charlie Brown, and what may become a new tradition, a talent show for all grades, Mad Talent Yo!

For a graduating senior, there can be no event more significant than graduation, the final high school event. This dignified ceremony is preceded by a week of similar as well as dissimilar senior events. The similar events--Class Night and Senior Assembly--provide a contrast to the dissimilar events--the more casual and fun-spirited mystery trip and senior night.

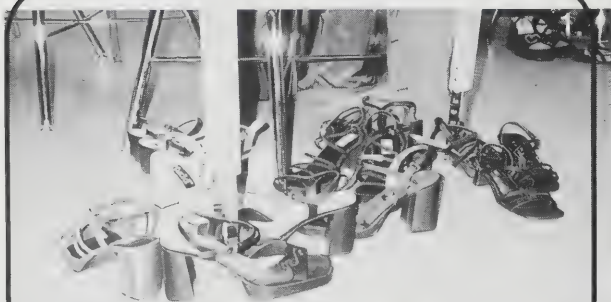

Events are not only for pleasure, but also often serve as a means to raise funds. Many events are actually just fundraisers for the organizations that host them. These include Homecoming, Mad Talent Yo!, the volleyball marathon, and senior show.

► Seniors Kristin Joyal and Jaclyn Vilaca dance at the Homecoming semiformal. "I had a good time. There wasn't a lot of seniors that came back though," says Kristin. "Out of all the events I attended this year, I had the most fun at homecoming. I liked it better than prom just because it cost less money and you don't have to go all out."

HOMECOMING SEMIFORMAL A Castle on a Cloud

Homecoming 2001 was held in the LHS cafeteria on November 16. Since 1996, The Cub staff has been coordinating the Homecoming dance and reaping the profits as a fundraiser. Senior Kerri Line, a member of The Cub staff, states, "I was very proud of Homecoming. It was beautiful. Everything came together with hard work and dedication. T.J. Midura, Kristine Miele, and Allie Yanka were a big help." The theme "Castle on a Cloud" was inspired by the musical "Les Miserables." The journalism students started to plan the decorations in September, but they had decided on the theme during the previous year. The theme was reinforced by a large blue, white, and silver cardboard castle in the center of the cafeteria.

Balloons, streamers, and a pond containing about 50 goldfish adorned the cafeteria. Freshman Meghan Williamson comments, "The decorations were really nice and I liked the idea of the fish pond." Unfortunately, the unstable pond was a slippery mess just waiting to be made. "The pond is supposed to be a submerged fish pond. However, we were using it above ground, so it was unsupported," said Mrs. Suzanne Kelley. "When people sat or stepped on it, they didn't realize it would cave in, but it did." When sat or stepped on, the pond would tilt and water would seep over the edges, forming a large puddle on the floor.

◀ Homecoming king and queen, Seniors Ryan Linton and Liz André, dance to a slow song after being crowned. "I was very surprised when they announced my name," says Liz. "I was honored that my fellow classmates nominated me."

▼ Sophomores Kimberly Dragon and Hillary Bolduc share a friendly hug beneath the castle that The Cub staff assembled. "I thought it was a really cool prop. I liked it a lot," says Kim. It cost $200 and took weeks to construct.

▲ Senior Daniel Faria sports his tie around his head while rapping to "Must Be the Money" by Nelly. "I was rapping to have fun and make people laugh," says Dan. The DJ provided the microphone.

SENIOR BANQUET

Senior Safari

The Senior Banquet, themed "Senior Safari," was held on Friday, January 25, at the Knights of Columbus Banquet Room in Chicopee. Animal masks of different kinds were placed at each table to go along with the theme. The masks ranged from exotic beasts such as lions and tigers, to barnyard animals like cows and pigs, to common house pets like rabbits and cats.

"I think everyone had a fun time playing with the masks. Ryan Linton wore a giraffe mask on his ankle to match Noel Petrolati's tattoo. People were wearing them on their heads and their arms too. They got crazy with them," says Amber LaMontagne.

The D.J. was Dave Costa. "He played a variety of techno and dance and pop music. As a whole the music was well liked by most," says Beth Ouimette. The last song of the night was "Graduation" by Vitamin C. As the song played, the seniors gathered around the dance floor with arms joined together and sang along. "We were singing and laughing," says Shannon Curtin. "People who you normally wouldn't see together were arm in arm. It was really nice to see our class come together at the end of the banquet because we haven't been very close over the past few years. It was touching. This was a nice way to end our first senior activity. It made me look forward to the other activities that will come at the end of May."

▲ 1. Crystal Brunton. 2. Freshman Lauren O'Neil and Scott Mahoney. 3. Mark Bates and Eric Kellogg. 4. Jodi Nascimento and Kristen Barone.

▲ Ben Lovell, Matt Ribeiro, and Joe Shanley reveal their animal instincts at the Senior Safari Banquet. "I thought the banquet was fun and the masks brought out the animals in the senior class," says Ben.

◀ Jackie Foley sports an animal print dress at the Senior Banquet. "I wore a leopard dress to go with the animal theme; it brought out the animal in me," says senior Jackie Foley.

▼ Kerri Line watches Rob Silva's antics with his harmonica. "His harmonica playing was one of the most entertaining parts of the night. We also had fun making up goofy dance movies," says Kerri. Rob says that he always carries his harmonica.

▲ Kim Pettengill and Michelle Colson partner off during a slow song. "Kim and I are best friends," says Michelle. "We had fun and enjoyed dancing with each other." Girls who go solo to banquets often dance with girlfriends during slow songs.

◀ Karen Hammel and Liz Barros stop to chat with each other during a song. "The banquet was a blast. Liz and I were discussing the song that just came on," says Karen.

► Lisa Swist and Chris Gates stand on the balcony, overlooking the dance floor. "The balcony was a great place to relax and talk with friends because the music wasn't as loud. It also made a great view of the whole class having fun on the dance floor," says Lisa.

▼ Jessica Jorge, Liz Lozuk, Catia Henriques, Susan Correira, and Megan Coelho get together for a picture before the banquet starts. "It was fun. It was different from other banquets," says Catia. "The tables so close together made it seem like a cozy place, like a class reunion."

▲ Mrs. Maureen Cotti and Mr. Richard Cotti share a slow dance. "This was a big surprise. They called us on the dance floor for the first song of the night because it was our sixteenth wedding anniversary," says Mr. Cotti.

► Liana Gama helps herself to some food while Patricia Kent waits in line. "There was a great variety of food, something for everyone's liking. It was all awesome," says Liana.

JUNIOR BANQUET

Hugs and Kisses

On Friday, February 15, the junior class held its annual banquet at the Yankee Peddler Inn in Holyoke. At 6:00 p.m., the doors opened and food was served at 6:30. The theme was "Hugs and Kisses." Class treasurer Amelie Lonczak was very pleased with the decorations: "The Yankee Peddler Inn was so beautiful that we didn't need decorations, but we did sprinkle confetti lips and hearts on every table. Roses were also placed on every table as centerpieces."

One of the highlights of the banquet was when D.J. Greg Gaudreau played a song with questionable language. Everyone hesitated and then started to laugh until Mrs. Mancuso ran over and told him to turn it off. "Someone had loaned the CD to him and he didn't know what was on it," says Mike Gaudreau.

For those who chose not to dance, a separate room was open with a relaxing fire and some couches. This room provided a place to hang out with friends, relax, and chat. "It was great! It was cool to sit near the fireplace and talk with your friends," says Heather Gregoire. The banquet ended at 10:30 pm. Students left with aching backs and legs from a long night of dancing.

▲ Chris Wozniak, Mike Saloio, and Josh Choiniere sip Shirley Temples at a table. "That's all we were drinking all night. The banquet was tiresome because all we were doing was dancing. All the dancing made us dehydrated," says Josh. Shirley Temples are very popular at banquets simply because students rarely have access to them.

▲ 1. Crystle Kaytra. 2. Christina Faria and Tommy Gamelli. 3. Matt Bamber and Senior Chris Bernardo. 4. Sheri Roxo, Agata Karas, Erin Ostrowski, and Nicole Lamica.

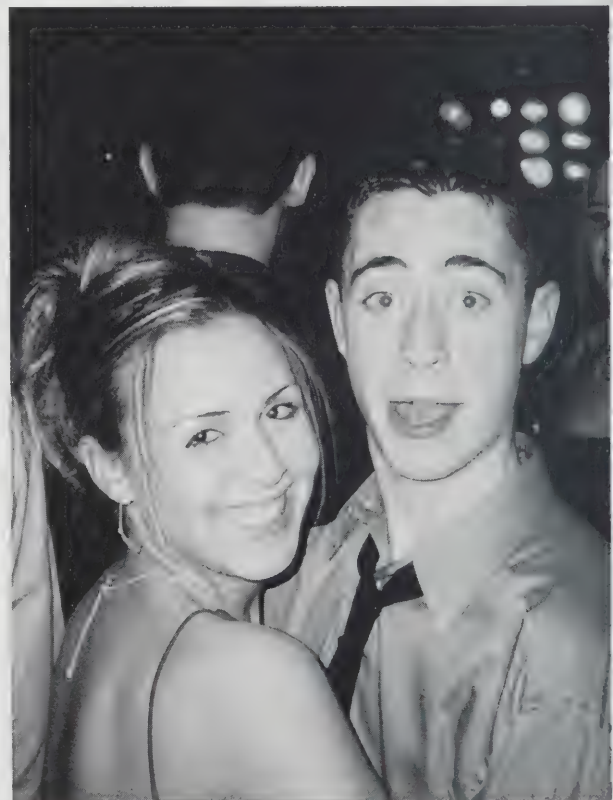

► Kyle Levesque takes off his tie, giving it to Brianne Thompson. "I take off my tie at banquets because it gets hot on the dance floor," says Kyle. Removal of ties at banquets has become a regular practice.

▼ Zac Falconer sticks out his tongue playfully while dancing with Jackie Lopes. Zac says, "I went to be with my friends and hang out. It was so fun that I didn't want it to end." Unfortunately, it did end at exactly 10:00 pm.

▲ Mrs. Toni-Marie Mancuso, Mr. Stephen Marino, and Dr. James Cokkinias sit together during the sophomore banquet. "Class banquets are lovely evenings of fun, food, and dance. It is nice to see everyone in formal attire," says Mrs. Mancuso. Administrators are present at all banquets to make sure that things run smoothly.

► Katie Lucas and Ben Milillo share a slow dance. "I went to the banquet with friends rather than my boyfriend because I wanted to spend time with everyone that I see less of lately," says Katie.

▼ Christine Barkyoumb-Hart, Sandra Rogowski, and Jessica Nai all dance in the crowd. Jessica, new to the school this year, says, "I had a lot more fun than I expected. The DJ was much better than the ones that we had at my old school."

SOPHOMORE BANQUET

Bust-A-Move

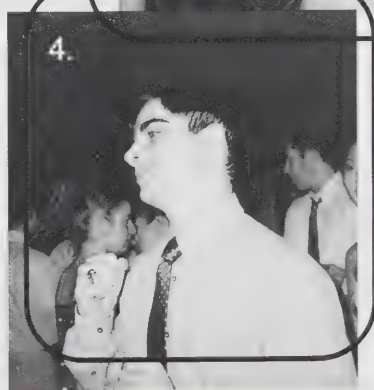

On Friday, February 9, the sophomore class held its semiformal banquet at the Ludlow Country Club. The name Bust-A-Move was intended to give kids a clue as to what this banquet was for--dancing! DJ Sergio André spun hip-hop, house, and more until the very last minutes of the night with a great response from the crowd. Sophomore Brittany Mariani says, "I really liked the music that the DJ played."

The food, catered by Horizons, was given mixed reviews. Jacinda Alves commented, "I didn't really like the food, but I had a good time anyway." However, Marc Santos liked the food. "There was a great selection, and I think that I went up for thirds or fourths."

Few freshmen attended the banquet but those who did had a good time: "Everyone was really cool," says freshman Erin Mislak. "Even though I was not a sophomore, they didn't treat me any differently."

The night was a success according to the class officers and proceeded without any mishaps leading up to its high-energy dance driven end.

▼ 1. Brittany Mariani, Jennifer Felix, and Christina DeNucci. 2. Jessica Unsderfer and Nichole Balderston. 3. Cristina André, Amanda Maksymiw, Kaitlyn LaRiviere, and Jacinda Alves. 4. Jeff Ribeiro.

▼ 1. Danielle Petrolati and Felicia Goncalves. 2. Dylan Carr. 3. Megan Williamson, Jung Kang, and Cara Stokowski. 4. Mike Burtch.

▼ Jay Blanchard and Nicole Silva join a few freshmen at Friendly's after the banquet. "Friendly's is the usual hangout after events. There were four of us that went, and Nikki's mom dropped us off," says Jay.

FRESHMAN BANQUET

An Enchanted Winter Dream

On January 11, the freshman class held its first class banquet, "An Enchanted Winter Dream." The affair took place at the Elk's Lodge in Ludlow. The banquet hall was decorated in blue and white balloons along with streamers of the same color scheme. The banquet hall looked like an "enchanted dream." Only 80 freshmen attended, which was a disappointing turnout for the class. Despite the low attendance, the freshmen who did attend had a wonderful time. Class advisors Mr. Tim Brillo and Mrs. Pamela Cangemi were amongst those in attendance who had an enjoyable time.

The students enjoyed a buffet which included salad, chicken, potatoes, and vegetables. To finish off the meal, strawberry shortcake was served for dessert. Music filled the hall as everyone had a great time on the dance floor. As a class, the students participated in the hokey-pokey dance and the limbo.

◀ Jocelyn Pereira shows off her immense flexibility in being able to do the limbo at the banquet. "I was just being myself and having fun being crazy. I thought that it was a good idea to limbo because it was a change from normal dancing," says Jocelyn.

▲ Meghan Hill, Melissa DaCruz, Lauren Dowd, and Aimee DaSilva all take a moment out of dancing to pose in front of an arc of balloons. "I think the banquet was really cool because our grade doesn't really hang out that much and we all got to spend the night together," says Melissa.

◀ Kristen Goncalves and Katibeth Mol hold their drinks while wearing leis. "There was a lot of tropical and fiesta themed stuff around, and I didn't really care what other people thought, so I did my own thing," says Kristen.

JUNIOR-SENIOR PROM

More Than Words

On Friday, May 17, 364 students stepped out of their limousines and cars to enter Tekoa Country Club in Westfield. Prom began with a social hour from six o'clock to seven o'clock when people were able to comment on each other's formal attire and munch on appetizers. The appetizers consisted of fresh fruit, quiche, cheese and crackers, and pigs in a blanket.

At seven o'clock the doors opened and people rushed through to find their tables in the beautifully decorated ballroom. Through its many large windows, the room provided a clear view of the club's golf course. The table centerpieces were roses tipped with glitter. Favors included the traditional inscribed glass stemware and mugs, as well as memory books intended for the ladies.

Tekoa catered the event with a selection of prime rib, chicken Cordon Bleu, and vegetarian lasagna. A delicate dessert was offered after the main course was finished. Meals were pre-selected with the purchase of a ticket. Many were surprised when they found the prime rib to be bleeding, but were able to have it cooked to their liking. Smoothies were available in two flavors: strawberry and piña colada. Music was provided by the International Disc Jockeys. Dancing started after dinner and didn't stop until eleven o'clock when the memorable evening came to a close.

▲ 1. Senior Denise Bradway and alumnus Doug Lawrence 2. Senior Chris Dias and alumna Nicole Chaves 3. Junior Victoria LeBlanc and alumnus Alex Portelada 4. Seniors Jill Dannay, Dennis Gove, Katrina MacInnis, and Trevor Grimm.

▲ Mike Norris stands by his date, Courtney Wells, a sophomore from West Springfield High. "I liked the country club; it was nice. The decorations were well done and they made the prom memorable," says Mike.

◀ Senior Sara Courchesne dances with her boyfriend, senior Jack Marques. "Prom was special because I went with my boyfriend, and it was my senior year," says Sara.

◀ Senior court member Karen Hammel gets her groove on at Prom. "Prom was one of the best events this year. I had a fantastic time dancing with all of my friends. I would definitely say it was 'more than words,'" says Karen. Other court members were Joel Baillargeon, Dave Cioch, Leslie Goncalves, king Scott Mahoney, and queen Liz André.

"I enjoyed taking part in helping prepare for the annual Portuguese dinner dance. It took a lot of work and time, but it's definitely something that I would consider doing again," says Viviana.

▲ Senior Kristine Miele gives a thumbs up to sophomore James Brodeur at the Spanish club banquet. "We found the hat on the floor, and it was in front of James so I held it up in front of his head as a joke," says Kristine.

► At the French club banquet, junior Angel Colby and sophomore Michelle Bradway show their moves on the dance floor. "I had a lot of fun, and it was as fun as I expected it to be," says Michelle.

LANGUAGE BANQUETS

French, Spanish, Portuguese

This year, the 13th annual Portuguese dinner dance was held. As well, two new dinner dances took place in honor of a culture. The ever competitive French and Spanish clubs each held banquets as fundraisers.

The French club held its banquet on February 8 at the Hu Ke Lau. To emphasize the theme, "Mardi Gras" beads and glitter hats were sold. Mr. James Martin comments on the banquet: "The food, the music, and some great kids made for a wonderful evening."

The Portuguese dinner dance took place in the high school cafeteria on April 5. For an entry fee, one could either pay five dollars or bring Portuguese cuisine. A wide range of Portuguese music was played by DJ Sergio Braga. "It is the nicest event that takes place during the school year. I feel very proud and blessed for having these wonderful Portuguese students," says Mrs. Maria Fagundes.

The Spanish club held a banquet on May 10 at the Unity Club. Although many danced the night away, other activities such as the limbo and breaking open a pinata were available. "It was the best banquet EVER! The best kids came, everyone danced, and the Spanish club really knows how to PARTY," says Mr. Paulo Zina.

▲ At the Spanish club banquet, freshman Sarah DeWolf shows how low she can go under the limbo stick. "It was a lot of fun because there were a lot of activities that you could enjoy doing," says Sarah. Activities other than limbo included breaking an authentic Mexican piñata and dancing. A toast was made to Señor Zina.

▲ 1. Juniors Victor Rodrigues and Megan Coelho (Portuguese banquet). 2. Señor Paulo Zina (Spanish banquet). 3. Seniors Patricia Silva, Jessica Zina, and Lisa André (French banquet). 4. Seniors Liz Crafts, Rob Kukla, Katie Freeman, and Laurie Ratkiewicz (French banquet).

► Junior Nicole Santos plays a flute and sings the Beatles song "In My Life." "I am glad we had Mad Talent Yo. It was fun to have an opportunity for people other than just seniors to perform in a relaxed environment," says Nicole.

▲ Senior Nate Cabana and his band do a rendition of the Alien Ant Farm song "Smooth Criminal." "That was probably the most fun I had in high school," says Nate.

► Junior Catia Henriques sings Shania Twain's song, "From This Moment." "It was my first time doing a solo, so I was very nervous. I never thought I could do it," she says. "I really enjoyed it. It was a great experience."

▼ Junior Jackie Jones sings 'Hero' by Mariah Carey. "I sang "Hero" for my teacher that died in middle school. It felt very good. I felt like I was getting love from everyone," says Jackie.

MAD TALENT YO
Spanish Club Fundraiser

On Friday, December 14, the Spanish Club sponsored Mad Talent Yo!, a talent show featuring students from all grades at Ludlow High School. "I was so happy and proud that we could organize an event to showcase the musical talent realm. Any time the arts can be showcased is a wonderful thing," says senior Nate Cabana, the president of the Spanish club. The show was extremely successful and was well received by all who attended. "We had over 600 people attend. The crowd was really responsive, which makes it even more fun and easier to perform," says senior Scott Mahoney. The host for the evening was senior Rob Silva. "Rob Silva's hosting was extremely hilarious. He really played the audience. He would mock the acts that had already been performed," says sophomore Matt Goodreau.

Between shows, there were brief humorous skits performed by members of the Spanish club. The first act that opened was "The Star Spangled Banner" sung by freshman Michelle Liaszenik, which was followed by a dancing performance and eight musical numbers, both vocal and instrumental. The grand finale of the show was "Soul Man," sung by seniors Scott Mahoney and Brian Tetreault. The show was filmed by the Channel 5 news crew and played on the Ludlow Cable Access Channel.

▼ 1. Junior Katie Vomero. 2. Freshman Cara Stokowski. 3. Senior Scott Mahoney. 4. Senior Liz André

▼ 1. Junior Amber Goodreau and freshman Nick Bruschi 2. Seniors Pam Wright and Kristen Barone. 3. Seniors Scott Mahoney and Robert Silva. 4. Sophomore Nichole Balderston, senior Mark Byrne and senior Mike Hastings.

▼ Senior Randy Placzek rests on a mass of pillows and sleeping bags. "The volleyball marathon was really fun, except for the fact that I got no sleep at all and everyone got cranky at the end of the marathon," says Randy.

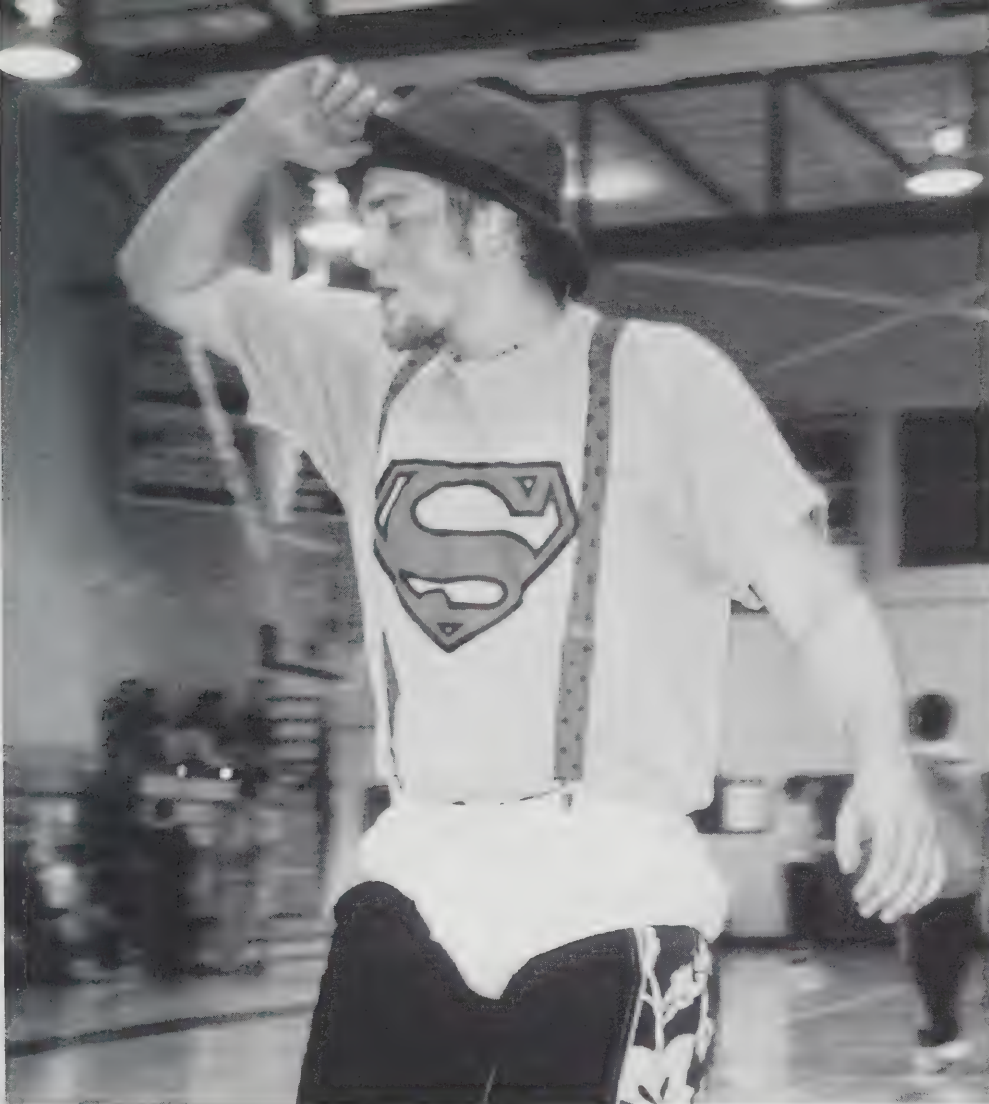

VOLLEYBALL MARATHON

A Fun Fundraiser

The volleyball marathon was held as a fundraiser for student council for the first time. "Over 200 LHS students participated overnight from Friday, March 22, to Saturday, March 23," says Mr. Brian Bylicki. All participants had to be in the building by 6:00 p.m. and were not allowed to leave until 7:00 a.m. the following morning.

Prizes were available for the first and second place winners. The first place prize was a $150 gift certificate for Pizzeria Uno and plaques, and second was movie passes for each member. The winning team from each of the three divisions made it to the finals, as well as the team with the best next best overall record, which was the Adult Team from division one. The first time that The Shockers, the division one champions, went up against the Adult Team, the former was victorious. However, in the finals, the Adult Team triumphed in a match that everyone watched. Then the Adults took first place by defeating the division two champion. The winner of the finals took first place, so although The Shockers had defeated the Adult Team earlier in the evening, they went home empty handed. "We had a lot of fun but it wasn't fair for the Adult Team to take home the championship," says senior Jenn Messier, a member of The Shockers.

◀ Senior Nate Cabana rearranges his hat during a match. "I had about six obscure articles of clothing, and I kept using different combinations to find the lucky one, which I never did since my team never won a game," says Nate. His team did, however, win the sportsmanship award.

▼ Juniors Bryon Almeida and Tyler Severyn help themselves to the pizza. "Whenever I got tired of playing, I would just eat until I got the urge to play again," says Tyler. The pizzas were donated by Domino's, Alfredo's, and Palermo's.

◀ Mr. Brian Bylicki, a member of the teachers' team, attempts to return the ball. "The teachers' team finished with a 3-4 record while playing all night," says Mr. Bylicki. There were approximately eight teachers on the team.

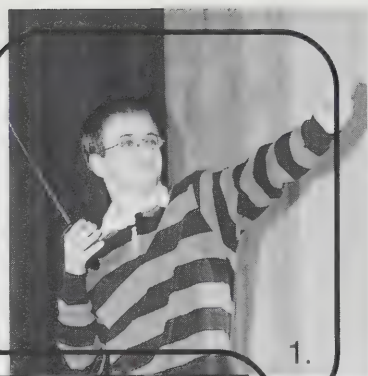

CHARLIE BROWN

A Play by the Musical Theatre Group

On April 26th and 27th, the play You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown, was performed in the LHS auditorium by the musical theatre group, a select group of students. "It's mostly kids in concert choir or band," says Mrs. Mary-Beth Will. "The chorus was my B-block treble class, which is mostly freshmen. Next year, it will be a class." The pit band included seniors Mike Abdow, Lindsey Palatino, and Brian Tetrault.

The production lasted about an hour and a half. It lacked a continuous plot, but instead consisted of a series of vignettes. "I think that something unique about the play was the fact that there was no actual set plot," says senior Scott Mahoney, "and that these little kids used such adult vocabulary."

Just about every vignette included a song with original dance choreography. "The choreography in Charlie Brown included many simple and childlike movements. Many people took part in the development of the dances, such as Katie Vomero, Mrs. Will, and most of the treble chorus," says senior Deana Birch.

▲ 1. Sophomore Daniel Borkowski. 2. Senior Jessica Babinski and Sophomore Angela DiAugustino. 3. Senior Scott Mahoney. 4. Front: Freshmen Meghan Hill, Rose-Marie Fernandes, and Stacy Dalby. Back: Salena Jedrzejczyk and Nicole Pio.

▲ Junior Amelie Lonczak plays the character of Lucy and senior Mike Cardin plays Linus. "Lucy is Linus's older, wiser sister. She is telling him to change the channel on the TV. She is bigger and tougher than Linus," says Mike. The TV is represented by the wooden box in the foreground.

◀ Snoopy, otherwise known as senior Nate Cabana, is pleasantly surprised as Woodstock, played by junior Katie Vomero, generously gives him a dog bone. "I think that our costumes brought color to the stage and brought our characters to life," says Katie.

▲ Senior Karen Hammel salutes the flag while playing Peppermint Patty in the production. "I was saying the Pledge Allegiance while I was in class," says Karen.

◀ Lucy, played by junior Amelie Lonczak, gives advice to Charlie Brown, senior Scott Mahoney, on how to help him boost his self-confidence. "The staging was very minimal. The only definite objects on stage were the tree, the dog house, and the booth. Everything else was cubes."

▼ Seth Falconer, Matt Ribeiro, Eric Kellogg, Ben Lovell, and Ricky Santos crowd around Michelle Goncalves as a prelude to the dancing in the "I Will Survive" skit. "I played the girl that all the guys were cheating on their girlfriends with. At the end, it turned out that all the girls were cheating, too, and they left with other guys," says Michelle.

▲ During the gym skit, Lori Costa and Jodi Nascimento watch overambitious nerd Alyssa Momnie who wanted to run more than one lap in gym class. "I thought everyone shared my passion for gym class, but I guess not," says Alyssa.

► Karen Hammel and Mike Abdow performed a scene from Miss Saigon. "I'm glad I got a chance to work with someone so talented," says Karen.

SENIOR SHOW

Time of Our Lives

Senior Show 2002, "Time Of Our Lives," was held on March 8th and 10th. The second performance was moved from the 9th due to the LHS hockey team making it to the Western Mass. hockey finals. The show was dedicated to the memory of art teacher Mr. Bernard Burns. It opened with Mr. James Martin reading "The New Colossus," a poem by Emma Lazarus, the poem enscribed on the Statue of Liberty. Shortly after the curtains opened, the Class of 2002 was presented as they sang "I've Had the Time of My Life" from the movie Dirty Dancing.

Like most productions, the show suffered some minor difficulties. On Friday night there was a short power failure, and on Sunday afternoon there was a false fire alarm nessecitating the evacuation of the auditorium. Other than these minor difficulties, the show ran smoothly and was filled with laughter and applause.

Mr. James Martin, Mrs. Mary-Beth Will, and Mrs. Anna Cokkinias worked very hard to make the production as successful as it was. They put a lot of time and effort into the girls' production "Annie" and the boys' production "Lucky Pierre's." The show closed with the senior class surrounding the crowd in the auditorium and singing "Proud to Be an American" while waving American flags in the air followed by "Closing Time."

▲ Jaclyn Vilaca and Ricky Santos hosted the second quarter of the senior show. The second time they came out, Jaclyn wore Ricky's tux and Ricky wore Jaclyn's dress. "Jaclyn and I switched clothes to bring excitement and laughter to the show," says Ricky. Pete Leonczyk, Liz André, Jenn Russell, Scott Mahoney, Karen Hammel, and Brian Tetrault were also hosts during the show. The seniors voted on who should host each quarter.

▲ 1. Nicole Robleto. 2. Jim Chenier and Dan Martins. 3. Nick Mol, Matt Mol, and Jen Russell. 4. Joe Shanley and Pete Leonczyk.

► Justin Soja, Sarah Bocon, and Denise Bradway play shuffleboard. "It was a fun time because we got to see a lot of people that go to different schools that used to go to Ludlow," says Denise.

▼ Karen Hammel raises her arm in victory while playing mini golf with Jason Duarte. "I thought it was fun and it brought the class together because it reminded us of our eighth grade field trip," says Jay.

▲ Joel Baillargeon, Chris Bernardo, Nick Gagne, Brent Kowal, Brock Gaspar, and Mike Pires play a game of volleyball against a team from another school. "High Meadows was a great time. I think our class came together that day through all the fun we had doing activities together," says Brock.

► Jeff McCauley awaits the return in a game of badminton.

▼ In matching outfits, Heather DeWolf and Kerri Line pose next to the ice cream truck while eating their ice cream. "Heather and I had so much fun eating our way through the mystery trip, and the ice cream truck was one of the highlights of our day," says Kerri.

MYSTERY TRIP

Surprise! High Meadows!

At 7:30 am on Tuesday, May 28, the senior class arrived at Ludlow High ready to embark on its final field trip. After their bags were sniffed by drug-seeking police dogs, the students took their seats in anticipation of where the buses would take them. Each participant received a T-shirt listing all members of the graduating class.

After several loops and twists, the buses turned into the High Meadows parking lot, which did not seem to surprise the students. "The past couple of classes have gone there and since we couldn't go to any cities, we figured that's where they were taking us," says Jodi Lucas.

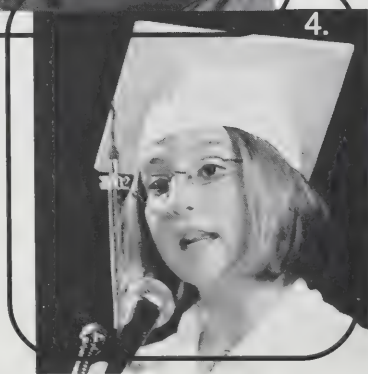

At High Meadows, the class took advantage of all the activities. A wide range of sports was available such as basketball, rock climbing, and volleyball. Students were able to get their picture taken with various cardboard cut outs such as Scooby Doo and Tomb Raider. The seniors participated in contests such as pie eating, egg tossing, and water balloon tossing. Students could also go on horseback rides or spend some time at the pool. A hypnotist show and tie dying were also popular activities.

Many members of the senior class could be found eating the masses of food that were available. Whether they got it from the ice cream truck, the cotton candy machine, or the cafeteria, the students definitely ate their money's worth.

▼ 1. Arrika Lucek, Shannon Curtin, Jennifer Russell, and Noel Petrolati. 2. Mike Abdow. 3. Randy Placzek and Melissa Quiterio. 4. Lisa André and Jessica Babinski.

▼ 1. Dr. James Cokkinias and valedictorian Elizabeth Barros. 2. Journalism staff members Kerri Line and Kristine Miele. 3. Mr. Paulo Zina and Ryan Linton. 4. Class president Noel Petrolati.

▼ Mr. Paulo Zina presents Emily Geanocopoulos with the Mr. Bernard Burns scholarship for art. "I am very honored. Mr. Burns was the best. I am going to the Massachusetts College of Arts, the same college Mr. Burns went to," she says.

CLASS NIGHT

A Night of Recognition

Class Night took place on Wednesday, May 29, in the LHS auditorium. It began at 7:00 p.m. and concluded almost two and a half hours later. Awards and scholarships were given, and the class history was read. The class ballot was read by journalism staff members Kerri Line and Kristine Miele, and the 2002 class gift of a new lion costume was presented by class treasurer Karen Hammel. Kerri Line also read the class poem that she wrote, "To Carry With Us Always."

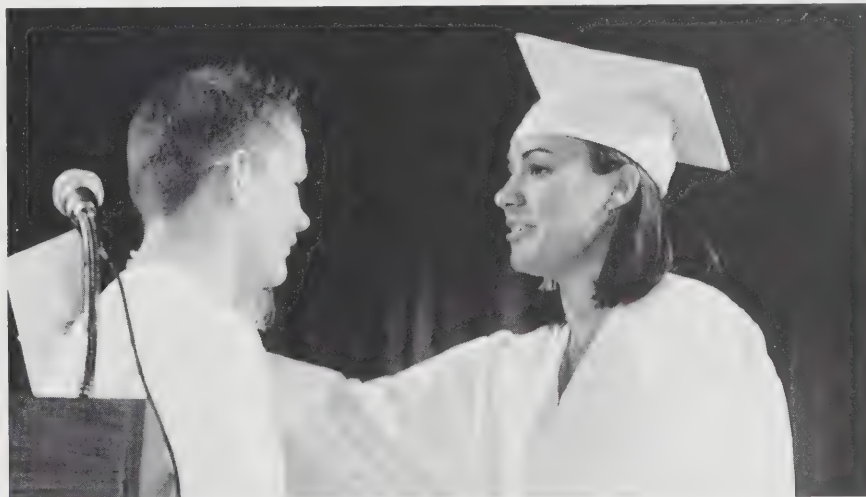

Salutatorian Jennifer Messier, class president Noel Petrolati, and Student Council president Jaclyn Vilaca gave speeches to the class. They all reminded the students that they have the potential to succeed in the future and told them that they will always cherish the memories that they have made over their four years of high school together.

Awards and scholarships were presented to many students, including valedictorian Elizabeth Barros and salutatorian Jennifer Messier. The top ten ranking students in the class of 2002 were also recognized at this event. Other awards were given to members of the class of 2002 for academic and athletic achievement, as well as for good sportsmanship and improvement in academic studies.

◀ Chorus members Jill Bramucci and Chrissy Barron sing "The Lord Bless You and Keep You." "It was kind of sad to sing because it was one of the last times I got to sing with the chorus, and I've been singing with them for four years," says Jill.

▼ Senior Chris Bernardo receives a full scholarship to college and an award from the armed forces at class night.

▲ David Pollard, the late Nicole's brother, presents Leslie Goncalves with the Nicole Pollard Scholarship. "It was really important to me to receive the award because my father has cancer. I want to major in pediatric oncology which deals with children's cancer," says Leslie.

◀ Salutatorian Jennifer Messier gives her speech at Class Night. "I was really nervous," says Jennifer. "I wanted to tell the class to remember the time we spent together, but to look forward to the future."

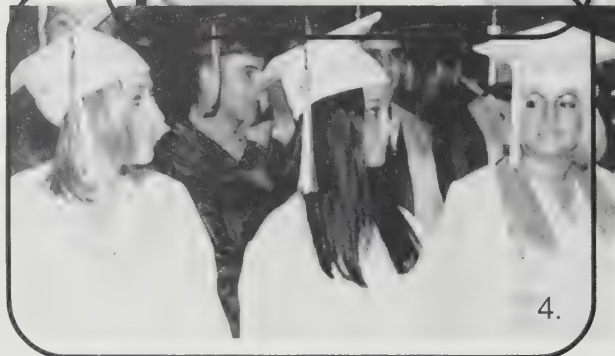

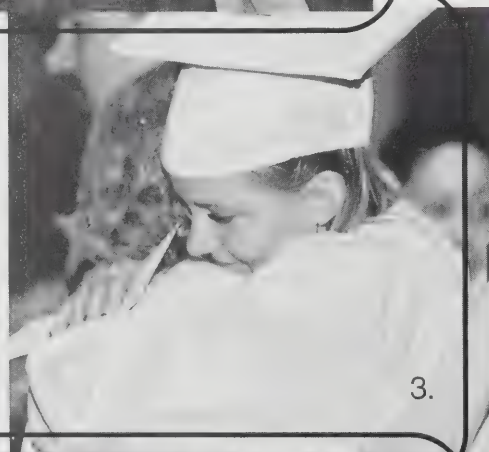

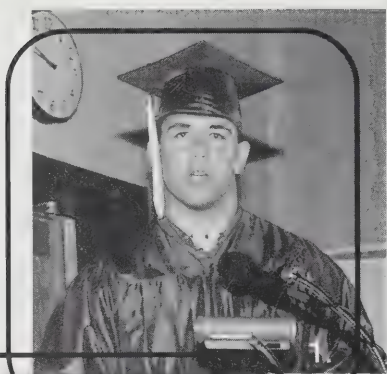

SENIOR ASSEMBLY

A Trip Down Memory Lane

The entire week surrounding graduation can be emotionally loaded, but those emotions peak at Senior Assembly. Intended to be a good-bye present from the junior class, Senior Assembly is a dramatic, tearful event that allows the senior class to reminisce about their childhood and growth.

Senior Assembly began with juniors forming an archway of roses to James Taylor's "Fire and Rain" followed by the seniors entering underneath to "Scarborough Fair" by Simon and Garfunkel. The program also included two photo clip shows, one of high school pictures and one of childhood pictures; presentation of gifts from the senior class to teachers who have gone above and beyond their duties; the passing of the peace pipe, a school tradition that promotes good will between the classes; and the presentation of letters written from the seniors to their parents.

To close the event, the juniors held candles over their heads while surrounding the seated seniors. "It was really sad, but it was a nice way to say good-bye to your friends and look back at how much you've changed. The juniors did a really good job," says senior Jennifer Pazos.

▲ 1. Senior Nicholas Vantangoli. 2. Juniors Christine James and Christopher Wozniak. 3. Christine Weaver and her daughter, senior Deanna Padilla. 4. Seniors Jennifer Pazos, Lisa Alves, and Kristine Axiotis.

▲ Senior Valerie Garcia has an emotional moment with her mother Pauline. "The letter that I wrote brought me closer to my mother and made me realize how short life is. I realized that you have to cherish the little things in life that you often take for granted," says Valerie. Many students were in tears at this event.

◀ During one of many practices, junior Mike Norris mocks senior Matt Levesque's frequent break dancing at school events. "I really didn't have much practice because not everyone was there at all of the practices," comments Mike. The skit poked fun at many well known seniors by using a "Twilight Zone" theme in which everything was backwards.

▼ Junior Amanda Santos lights junior Stacy Santos's candle. "Senior Assembly was a magical time for me because I got the chance to properly say good-bye to my senior friends," says Stacy.

▲ Junior Derek Chandonnet, the new lion, jumps on junior Seth Reich, the old lion. "I was surprised when I was asked to be part of it," says Seth. In the skit the old, tattered lion walked out only to be jumped by the new lion.

◀ Next year's senior class president Katie Vomero receives the peace pipe from senior class president Noel Petrolati. "I think that it's very important to keep the tradition alive because it represents the very spirit of LHS," says Katie. The pipe is adorned with a banner that represents each class.

► Joel Baillargeon dances his heart out. "The Hu Ke Lau was the last hurrah for our class, one last chance for all of us to show off our dancing skills. I decided to dance like an absolute idiot, which wasn't any different from any other of our banquets!" says Joel.

▼ Mike Abdow, Carl Parylak, and Brent Kowal have dinner before the start of the show. "We had a blast and it was a good chance to see everyone before we go our separate ways," says Brent.

▲ Melissa Quiterio writes her adjective and quote for this yearbook, which was due by the banquet. "I think everyone forgot to write it before, so we all ended up doing it that night," says Melissa.

► Scott Mahoney does his "Sexy Dance." "It was just a joke kind of thing that I started doing. Then it kind of blew to epic proportions. Plus, I did it while I had my afro so that made it better," says Scott.

SENIOR NIGHT

Another Blackout

Seniors arrived at the Hu Ke Lau in bright Hawaiian print shirts and dresses for their final banquet together as a class. The last activity of senior week before graduation, the banquet took place on Thursday, May 30, between 6 and 10:30 p.m. On arrival, students recieved disposable cameras which turned the soon-to-be graduates into camera-happy teenagers trying to capture final memories of high school on film. The evening will be burned into memories as well as retinas, which may be permanently damaged from the onslaught of flashes.

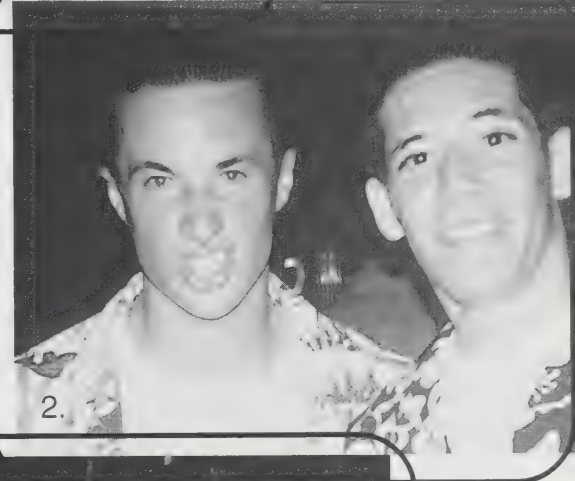

Many seniors who rarely attended events during the school year were present at this banquet. For example, Chris Yu was present, and his classmates raised him on their shoulders in their eagerness to get him involved. "It was unexpected, but I guess it was fun," says Chris.

Dinner was served buffet style shortly after seven. Immediately after, a show was performed featuring hula dancing, singing, and waving of a baton that was lit on fire.

And what senior event would be complete without a blackout? The longest one yet, this blackout lasted about 20 minutes. When power was restored, the dancing recommenced. DJ Dave Costa ended the banquet with the playing of "Graduation" by Vitamin C. The senior class formed one last circle as students of Ludlow High School.

▲ Justin Soja stands beside a frazzled-looking waitress during the blackout. "During the blackout I thought I could ask the waitress for her number and no one would see because it was dark," says Justin.

▲ 1. Diane Serrazina. 2. Mike Diotalevi and Jason Duarte. 3. Jill Dannay and Lisa André. 4. Katie Bourdeau, Mike Martins, and Meghan Lampron.

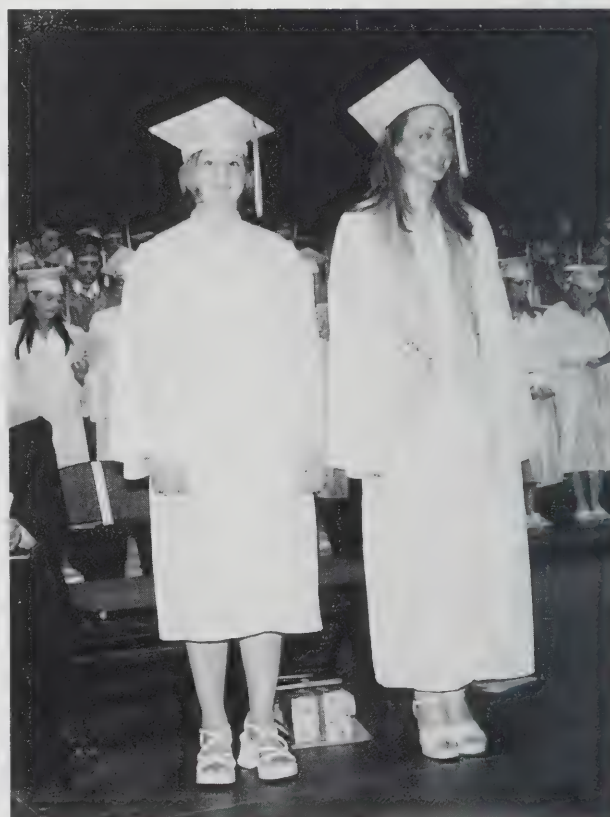

► School committee chairwoman Gail LaBelle gives Courtney Babian her diploma. "I felt great and proud of myself that I achieved my goals and got my diploma," says Courtney.

▼ Chris Bernardo and Sara Courchesne walk under the flower archway at graduation. When asked what was going through his mind at that moment, Chris said, "I was thinking, 'Don't trip, don't trip.'"

▲ The senior members of the chorus sing for the last time together at graduation. "It was depressing knowing that I wasn't going to sing with them again. I felt that they did a good job," says senior member Scott Mahoney.

The Class of 2002 Enters the World

On Friday, May 31, at the Mullins Center, Ludlow High School's Class of 2002 officially said goodbye to the halls of LHS. The class entered the arena as the band played the processional song, "Pomp and Circumstance." The music continued as the "Star Spangled Banner" was played. The senior members of the band picked up their instruments for the last time and played a piece entitled "With Quiet Courage," which paid tribute to all the parents of the seniors.

Next, valedictorian Elizabeth Barros gave a moving address featuring quotes from William Shakespeare's "As You Like It." "I really didn't know what to say but I knew that high school was the beginning of more things to come. I felt happy to have all the hard work pay off," says Elizabeth.

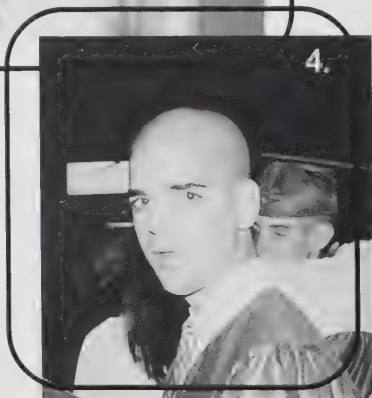

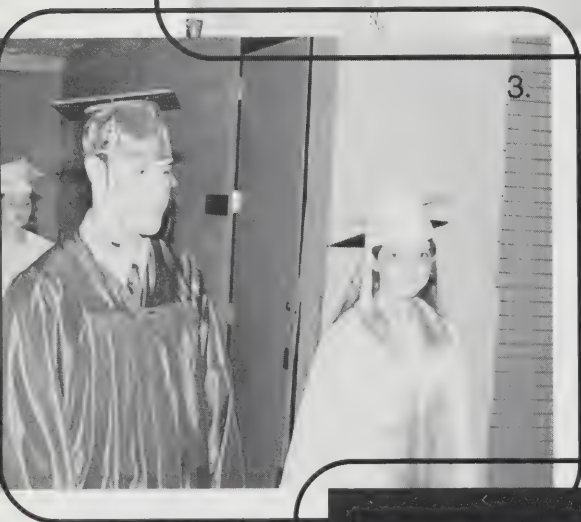

At the conclusion of Elizabeth's speech, the concert choir, treble choir, and their departing seniors raised their voices for the last time together in singing "Dona Nobis Pacem." Dr. Cokkinias then introduced class president Noel Petrolati, who delivered a heartfelt graduation message to her classmates. "I wrote a speech to represent the class as one and to show the triumphs everyone has gone over. I wanted to give them a message that I believe in each and everyone of them to go out into the world and become successful," commented Noel.

▼ 1. Mr. Paulo Zina, Mrs. Marilyn D'Agostino, Mrs. Michelle Masse, and Mr. Martin Fanning. 2. Diane Serrizina, Sarah McGrath, and Leslie Goncalves. 3. Anthony Serra and Dr. John Welch. 4. Shannon Curtin and David Saraiva.

▼ 1. Mr. Stephen Marino, Mr. Jeffrey Sajdak, Mr. Joseph Santos, Mr. Walter Stewart, and Mr. Michael O'Rourke. 2. Heidi Mariani and Pam Wright. 3. Ryan LaFleur and Kristine Miele. 4. Dan Martin.

▼ Stephanie Rosa and Meghan Gardner help Amber LaMontagne adjust her cap. "It was wicked exciting but when it came down to it, I didn't feel like I was graduating," says Amber.

When asked how she felt about graduating, Noel stated, "I felt relieved that the pressure of graduating over the four years was gone and I was out in the real world."

Towards the end of the ceremony, members of the class received awards. Students were honored for superiority in subject areas. Award winners were Robert Silva, Jennifer Messier, Emily Geanacopoulos, Seth Falconer, Elizabeth Barros, Lauren Mislak, Patrick Karalekas, Jaclyn Vilaca, Elizabete André, Lisa André, Kerri Line, and Michael Abdow.

Superintendent Dr. John Welch presented the class to school committee chairwoman Gail LaBelle. Members of the class then filed across the Mullins Center's stage one by one and received their diplomas. New and old alumni joined the high school choir in singing the Alma Mater. The alumni then recessed to "Music for a Ceremony."

Beginning freshman year, these students have pushed themselves for four years to achieve great things. They walked out of the Mullins Center's doors not to find themselves returning to the halls of LHS, but to walk into the real world where they will encounter many other doors which they must open to seek great lives and outstanding opportunities.

◀ Derek Salema and Elizabete André proudly display their diplomas following the graduation ceremony. "Walking across the stage and receiving my diploma made four years of hard work seem so worthwhile," said Derek.

▼ Mike Abdo stops to talk to his music teacher Mrs. Mary-Beth Will before the ceremony begins. "In high school I have studied with people who have given me the right tools and the right state of mind to be successful in everything I do," Mike commented.

▲ Matt Papia, Jay Daurte, Mike Diotalevi, Mr. James Martin, and Joel Baillargeron reflect on their last four years of school. Mr. Martin helped the senior class with many events, including graduation.

◀ Rob Silva receives from Dr. Cokkinias the Peter Boita Award for excellence in the study of mathematics. Rob did an outstanding job this year in his calculus class. "I guess I am really good in math," said Rob.

Our Dearest Jaclyn,

As we look back at these four years, we can't even begin to count the thousands of joyous hours we have shared with you. Those days in your life that you have so lovingly given to us have brought us closer together as a family. As parents of a wonderful young woman, we have tried to provide you with two very important ingredients: one of those is roots and the other is wings.

Never forget how awesome you are. Believe in yourself as we believe in you! For, within you lies the power to make your life what you want it to be.

Here's to a young woman that knows how to love, that is not only beautiful on the outside but even more so on the inside, that thinks of her family and loved ones on all occasions.

Here's to a young woman with foresight and endless determination, that has set goals for herself and possesses the drive to accomplish them.

Here's to a young woman that knows the only difference between the possible and the impossible is a positive attitude.

Here's to a young woman whose parents are so very, very proud of her and all her many accomplishments that words can't even begin to describe how we feel.

Boston College is fortunate to have you for the next four years. We wish you the very best. We love you with all our hearts and will miss you immensely.

*Love always,
Mom & Poppi*

Congratulations Jaclyn!!!!

Dear Jacki,

For many years we've shared our lives, one roof we once lived under. Sometimes we laughed, sometimes we cried, through winter storms and thunder.

The younger years are fading fast; we're going our separate ways. But through all time our friendship lasts, our bond in life remains.

As summer brings the happy times, the autumn winds will whisper. A closer friend I'd never find, than the one I call my sister.

Luv Ya, Audrey

P.S. Now it will be your turn to come home and sit on the roof!

Elizabeth,
You're an angel. May God make your life just as nice as can be because you're special to him and you're special to us. Congratulations on all your achievements and recognition. We are very proud of you and wish you the very best life has to offer.

With love,
Mom, Dad, Dinis

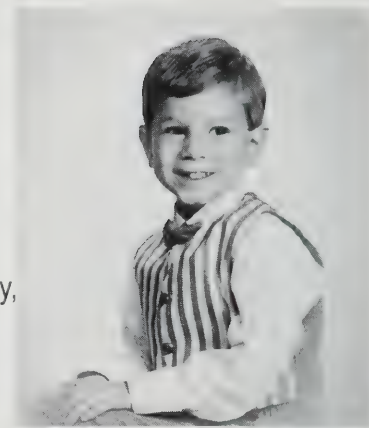

Congratulations Joel!

You were our first born son,
Proud parents from the start.
Many joys you brought our way,
Never losing heart.

As our family grew with time,
When needed you were there.
Always looking for the bright side,
Lending lots of help and care.

Now as we send you on your way,
Unsure of what the future brings.
Take all our love and faith and hope,
And let God guide you to your dreams.

Love,
Mom and Dad
Jared, Mathew, and Kara

Congratulations Lisa!

We are so proud of you. Keep reaching for the stars and may all your dreams for the future come true.

Pai, Mãe, & Cristina

Congratulations, Michael!!!

We are so proud of you!
Pursue your dreams.
Work hard.
Listen to your heart.
Reach for the stars!
We love you!
Love,

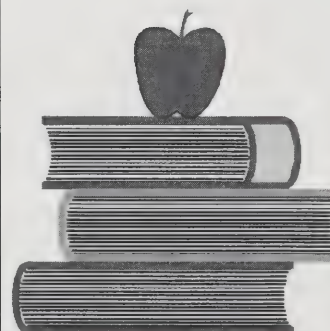

Mom & Dad

Kristen,

Give life the best you've got and life will give you more than you can imagine...

*All our love always,
Mom, Dad, Marisa*

Brent,

Mark,

Congratulations! We knew you could do it.

Love,
Dad and Agra

Mark,

Congratulations! We love you very much and are very proud of you! We wish you success and happiness.

Follow your dreams.

Love,
Mom, Carolyn, and David

Dear Jill,

Dance like no one is watching, and your dreams will come true. There is only one you.

"I love you, too."

This is your first;
seen your second;
can't wait for your third.

Congratulations, Katie

The transformation from the little girl to the beautiful young lady you have become has been great. We hope that all your dreams come true; stay focused and they will. It is such a joy having you around. We are very proud of you.

*Love you baby,
Mom and Dad*

Dear Nate,
You're the best. We love the person you are.
"If music be the food of love, play on."
Love, Mom, Dad, and Mia

Congratulations, Michael,

We are so very proud of you. Always remember: the best way to predict your future is to create it and believe in your dreams!

Love,
Mom, Dad, & Meghan

May your sense of humor and optimistic outlook always serve you well. You have always been my sunshine.

*Love,
Mom*

*Christina,
We are very proud of you.
Love,
Mom, Dad, and Mike*

Betty,

We are very proud of you.

*Love,
Mom, Dad, Fil, and Cristina*

Heather Feather,

Congratulations!

We are so proud of the goals you set for yourself and how hard you work to accomplish them. Continue reaching for the stars.

*Love,
Dad, Mom, Sarah, & Emily*

Brock--

I will never forget all the great times we've shared. These years were the best! You deserve all the success in the world. Congratulations!!

I love you always,
Lauren

Aislinn,

You are a shining example of what a daughter can be: beautiful and good, honest and principled, determined and independent, sensitive and intelligent. You are a shining example of what every family wishes their daughter were, and we are so very proud of you.

*Love,
Mom, Tim, & Ethan*

Bethany,

As you leave your high school years behind you, doors will open for you. Always remember HE will be watching over you right along side with Peperre. Best of luck in all you do.

*Love,
Mom and Dad*

Dear Sara,

To my sister, my friend---

Enjoy this special time in your life and know I will always be here for you.

Love, Chris

Dear Sara,

We have watched you grow from a young child into a beautiful young lady. We are so proud of you and hope you will never stop working hard to make all your dreams come true.

*Love,
Mom and Dad*

Emily,

May every dream in your heart come true.

We're so proud of you, and we love you so much!

All our love,

Mom, Dad, Matt, & Andrew

To Our Daughter Kristin:

Blond wispy hair
Big bright eyes of brown
When you where born
That was you!

Smiles and lips so sweet
Laughter such a joy
As you grew
That was you!

Going to school
Learning such a joy
As you grew
That was you!

Dancing with joy
Studying so hard
As you grew
That was you!

Having best friends
Shopping with zest
As you grew
That was you!

Talking on the phone
Driving your car
As you grew
That was you!

Looking to the future
Wanting more of life
As you grew
That was you!

Off you go
Adventures so new
As you continue to grow
Just be you!

Your dreams are real
Your future so bright
As you go through life
Whatever you want is up to you!

We wish you love, happiness, and success,

Mom, Dad, Justin

Heidi,

Hey, cheese! We're so proud of you and know you have a great future ahead- You're "movin' on" (sniff, sniff).

Love,
Mom, Dad, Heather,
Amber, & Brittany

Lauren,
There's no better friend than a sister, and no better sister than you.
You are my hero.

Love,
Erin

Dear Lauren,
Never forget how proud we are of you and how much we love you.
Listen to your heart. . .
Follow your dreams. . .
Reach for the stars. . .

Love,
Dad, Mom, and Erin

Congratulations!

Jodi,
We are all very proud of you. We love you very much. We wish that all your dreams come true.

Love,
Dad, Mom, & Jill

Kristine,
It seems like only yesterday . . . now look at how much you've grown! You are a kind and generous young woman. We love you so much!

Love,
Mom & Dad

Kristine,
Thanks for always being a great sister. Good luck in the future.

Love,
Karen

If we could reach up and hold a star for every time you made us smile, we could hold the whole night sky in the palm of our hands.

Congratulations, Kerri!

Love,
Dad, Mom, Nick, and Breanna

*Congratulations,
Erin
We love you.*

*Mom, Dad, &
David*

May all your dreams and goals come true.
We are truly proud of both of you.

Love,
Mom, Guy, Erik, & Kevin

*"May, all your dreams
come true."
"We're proud of you."*

Love you,
Pa Pa & Gramma

Jodi,

We are so proud of you . . . may all your dreams come true!

Love,

Mom, Dad, Katie, & Michelle

In everyone's life there are moments of pride and accomplishment that are remembered forever.

*Through the years,
you have set goals and met each challenge with enough courage and determination to overcome the many obstacles that you've encountered along the way.*

Success is not measured by how well you fulfill the expectations of others, but by how honestly you live up to your own expectations.

Because you have been true to yourself in the pursuit of your dream, you have earned this moment and the right to be proud of your accomplishment.

Junior editor Lisa Rua

Lisa was here almost as often as I was. She was even here on her birthday!

Editor-in-chief Aislinn Emirzian

This was the most challenging year of my life. Yearbook was very demanding.

Junior editor Julieta Cordeiro

Julie kept coming even after she mutilated her eye by walking into a pole.

Closing SETTING SUN

Three cheers for the yearbook geeks! I don't think any of us, especially me, knew what we were getting into when we joined the yearbook staff. Special thanks to junior editors Lisa Rua and Julieta Cordeiro, who were always here with me and who toiled over panel photos for the people section on a dysfunctional computer, and Mrs. Kelley, who stayed late into the evenings correcting our work. Thanks also to business managers Liz Hangasky and Kerri Line, who not only did all of the community pages, but also took on the index. Credit is also due to Mrs. Guinipero, Mrs. Thomas, and Mrs. Amaral, who were always helpful with providing lists and information. To my general staff members, especially the sophomores, you all did an awesome job this year and good luck next year!
